25,000 U.S. Troops To Leave Viet

Thieu Stresses Solidarity

MIDWAY ISLAND AP — President Nixon's first move to pare down the U.S. troop commitment in Vietnam—by 25,000 men as a start—was followed Sunday night by a strong affirmation of Washington-Saigon solidarity.

The harmony declaration came from President Nguyen Van Thieu in off-the-cuff remarks to newsmen following his summit meeting with Nixon on tiny, mid-Pacific Midway Island.

Referring to advance speculation that there might be serious differences between the United States and the Saigon government over ways and means to promote the search for peace, Thieu said with empnasis: "This is not true . . . We have a very close understanding on that."

Following five hours of talks, most of them with only one key adviser sitting beside each chief executive, Nixon returned to Honolulu for an overnight stay and Thieu flew back to Saigon.

Thieu expressed satisfaction with Nixon's decision to withdraw 25,000 American troops from his country, with all indications pointing to further withdrawals.

He called it "good news for the American people" and declared:

"We will do our best from now on to alleviate the burden of the American people."

It seemed evident the American delegation at Midway hoped the move would help defuse homefront criticism of Nixon's Vietnam policy.

But Sen. Eugene McCarthy, D-Minn., said he didn't "see that this is any significant indication of any program to try and resolve or end the war." And Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., commented: "I can't see where this represents any significant shift of American policy . . . I think we ought to begin taking them all out, and the faster the better, as far as I am concerned."

In his announcement, Nixon said:

"President Thieu informed me that the progress of the training program and the equipping program for South Vietnamese forces had been so successful that he could now recommend that the United States begin to replace U.S. combat forces with Vietnamese forces . . .

"As a consequence of the recommendation by the president and the assessment of our own commander in the field, I have decided to order the immediate redeployment from Vietnam of a division equivalent of approximately 25,000 men.

"This troop replacement will begin within the next 30 days and will be completed by the end of August . . .

"I will announce plans for further replacement as decisions are made."

In Washington, Pentagon sources said the 25,000 troops probably will get no closer home than Okinawa or Hawaii. From there they could be rushed back to Vietnam if needed.

Some officers at the Pentagon were surprised that more Americans weren't being pulled out. One source said there had been proposals to withdraw 50,000 or more men. The President was "being prudent," he added.

Nixon said decisions of future withdrawals would hinge on the readiness of South Vietnamese forces, progress in the Paris peace talks and the level of enemy activity.

White House sources had said earlier they believed a troop withdrawal made from a position of strength would promote progress in Paris.

The two presidents also subscribed to a declaration, put forward in a joint statement at the end of the conference, that presumably was designed to help get the negotiations moving:

"The two presidents confirmed their convictions that the form of government under which the people of South Vietnam will live should be decided by the people themselves . . . They declared for their part they will respect any decision by the people of South Vietnam that is arrived at through free elections."

At the same time, they "reiterated their common resolve to reject any attempt to impose on the Republic of Vietnam any system or program or any particular form of government, such as coalition, without re-

Senate OK Seen Today For Burger

Confirmation Set For Appointment As Chief Justice

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate may usher in a new judicial era with confirmation today of Warren E. Burger as chief justice of the United States.

Senate leaders seeking to wrap up work on the confirmation, after a false start last week, had all the technicalities taken care of for a planned vote this afternoon on the first change in high court administration—and possibly its judicial trend—in 16 years.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, acting Democratic leader, asked for a roll call vote although he said he has heard of no opposition.

No one in the Senate had expressed any criticism of Burger who was promoted from the District of Columbia appeals court to succeed Chief Justice Earl Warren. President Nixon announced the selection 19 days ago.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen attempted to speed the confirmation last Thursday, but this was called off because printed copies of Burger's testimony before the Judiciary Committee were not ready. The reports were available today.

Although his appointment was cheered loudly by conservative Republicans and Democrats as portending a new trend on the high court, Burger has said he will not be a captive of either conservatives or liberals.

His credo, as he puts it, is that every case has to stand on individual merits. He says he regards his opinions during the 13 years on the circuit court as far more liberal than the conservatives like to think they are.

On the other hand, Burger has asserted his dedication to a much stricter interpretation of the Constitution than the Warren Court followed in some cases.

Burger pleased nearly all Judiciary Committee members by saying the Supreme Court has no power to legislate or to

Outfits Probably Will Be Held At Okinawa, Hawaii

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 25,000 U.S. troops being withdrawn from Vietnam this summer will not come all the way home, but are expected to be held in reserve in such areas as Okinawa or Hawaii, according to Pentagon sources.

In case of emergencies, the sources indicated, the units could be rushed back to Vietnam.

They said the scaling down of U.S. manpower is expected to begin with an initial pullout of several combat battalions or support-type forces. Identification of the units may not come for several days, the sources said, possibly only after the troops already have left the war zone.

The broad outline for the phased American withdrawal was set Sunday when President Nixon announced that 25,000 men—"a division equivalent"—would be out of Vietnam by August.

The decision was greeted in Washington with some surprise—not that the administration was beginning the long-awaited de-escalation but that it was so limited.

One uniformed officer who was familiar with the various options the administration was studying commented: "That's weird. I've seen numbers of 50,000 and higher. We could have pulled out more."

Pentagon sources noted that the 25,000 means the President probably is authorizing the withdrawal of various small units, not a regular division, as starters.

Thus the Vietnam scaledown will take place in much the same way as the buildup which began four years ago: in piecemeal fashion.

Attacks By Enemy Drop Off Sharply

SAIGON (AP) — After three days of heavy fighting across South Vietnam, enemy attacks dropped off sharply Sunday night.

U.S. spokesmen could offer no firm explanation for the sudden drop in North Vietnamese and Viet Cong attacks, except possibly the heavy losses the enemy had suffered. Military sources estimated about 2,500 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops have been killed by allied forces since the sudden upsurge in enemy activity began last Thursday night.

The U.S. Command has made no announcement of total U.S. casualties during this period, but informed sources estimate that more than 150 Americans have been killed.

Military analysts considered the step-up in enemy attacks an attempt to influence the Midway meeting between Presidents Nixon and Nguyen Van Thieu. With the meeting over, it appeared that the Viet Cong might be returning to business as usual.

The U.S. Command reported more than 20 rocket and mortar attacks Sunday night and early today, less than half the 59 attacks the night before. There were 63 on Friday night and more than 100 Thursday.

U.S. headquarters said overall casualties and damage were light Sunday night.

U.S. officers, including Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, see the enemy activity not as a general summer offensive but rather as a continuing campaign to harass allied forces and inflict heavy casualties. Enemy forces launch a series of heavy attacks

After Viewing Tests

Pentagon Experts Puzzled By Latest Soviet Missiles

WASHINGTON (AP) — Observation of a series of Soviet missile tests in the Pacific has left Pentagon experts uncertain whether the Russians now have multiple warheads which can be steered to separate targets.

American ships stationed in Russia's Pacific testing area have watched three or four extended range test shots of the giant SS9 intercontinental ballistic missile since April.

A study of telemetry and other data gathered by the observing U.S. vessels has been inconclusive as to whether the Soviets have multiple warheads which they fire in clusters, or whether they have mastered the technology of separately targeting each of the warheads, sources say.

Opinion thus is divided, although there is general agreement that at a minimum, the Soviets have been testing multiple warheads with sufficient dispersion to threaten knockout of individual Minuteman missile sites in the United States.

The United States has conducted at least 14 tests of Minuteman III land-based missiles and Poseidon submarine-launched missiles equipped with multiple independently targetable re-entry vehicles, called MIRV.

U.S. Air Force and Navy sources said these tests demonstrated impressive accuracy.

The U.S. test series began last August and is scheduled to run for two years before the first MIRV's can be mounted in combat readiness.

U.S. missile men are trying for accuracy that would drop Minuteman III and Poseidon warheads within a quarter of a mile of their targets.

Dr. John F. Foster, Pentagon Research and engineering chief, has indicated that he believes the Soviets will be able to achieve similar accuracy with their SS9s, each of which can carry a single warhead with the explosive force of 25 million tons of TNT or three separate warheads each with the blasting force of 5 million tons.

The Soviets have deployed more than 200 SS9s, in a total force of more than 1,000 missiles which now roughly equals the U.S. land-based arsenal, according to reports.

Soviets are reported building the SS9 at a rate which could give them some 500 of these weapons by about 1974.

If the SS9 should be fitted with three individually guided multiple warheads, that would mean the Russians could aim some 1,500 warheads at the 1,000 Minuteman missiles in U.S. silos, if

Advertising Rules Set By Lending Law

WASHINGTON (AP) — The new federal truth-in-lending law which becomes effective July 1 won't make credit any cheaper, but it could encourage borrowers to shop around for the best possible deal.

Lenders for the first time will have to furnish potential borrowers with complete and detailed figures on how much credit will cost and a realistic statement of the interest charge.

They also will have to be more specific in advertising.

No longer will it suffice to advertise a $15 electric iron, for example, for $1 down and $1 weekly payments. The ad will have to say how long the payments must be made and what the iron will have cost when the final payment is made.

The stated purpose of the new law is to let borrowers and customers know the exact cost of

Nixon Has His Problems With GOP Congressmen

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon, who might have expected trouble from the Democrats in Congress, is running into serious problems with Republicans on many of his key legislative proposals.

Nixon's recommendations in the areas of electoral reform, voting rights, postal reform, tax reform, college unrest and anti-poverty legislation have met with wide opposition in his own party on Capitol Hill.

As a result, Nixon has beeen forced to change some of his proposals, hold up others and, where he has done neither, to face the prospect of defeat.

The President has been criticized for the slow pace at which his legislative proposals have been sent to Congress, but considering the fate many of them have met it is understandable.

On the issue of electoral reform, Nixon asked Congress to approve a constitutional amendment that would divide a state's electoral votes among the presidential candidates in proportion to their popular vote.

The recommendation was never even seriously considered

City Sets Parking Ban To Aid Bridge Traffic

The police department has established a parking ban on both sides of W. 5th St. near City Hospital in an attempt to speed movement of traffic on and off the congested Newell Bridge, Police Chief A. J. Radeschi said today.

The banned stretch begins at a point near the main entrance to the hospital and extends to the bridge approach, the chief pointed out. "No Parking" signs already have been erected.

Radeschi said he and Safety-Service Director Robert E. Vodrey looked over the spot and decided elimination of parking would help speed traffic flow, especially on the curve at the end of W. 5th St. at the bridge approach. Unusually long vehicles, such as cars towing trailers, sometimes were slow in rounding the sharp turn, he said.

4 Boys Cited For Entry Of Lumber Yard

Four youths were cited Sunday night after they were trapped inside an East End lumber company's office during an alleged burglary, police reported.

The boys are accused of the breaking and entering at the Kerr Lumber Co. on Virginia Ave., owned by Burton W. Kerr. They range in age from 11 to 15. Two reside on Virginia Ave., one on Haywood St. and one on Chaffin St.

Four officers surrounded the building at 9:50 after receiving a report that prowlers were inside the lumber firm's office. The boys burst from the building, but one was captured after a brief chase and the others were taken into custody a short time later. Officers said nothing appeared to be missing from the building.

Ferguson Act Seen Safe

By JOHN R. THOMAS
Review Staff Correspondent

COLUMBUS, Ohio — The Ohio General Assembly might take action extending bargaining and recognition rights to public employe unions and associations, but it certainly will not go so far as to wipe out the 22-year-old Ferguson Act.

There are those, of course, who would like to see the Ferguson Act, which prohibits strikes by public employes, thrown out and replaced wth a comprehensive public employe bargaining law. A bill has been introduced in the Senate which would do just that.

THEN THERE ARE those who, because of personal or philosophical reasons, would continue the Ferguson Act, and maybe even toughen up its provisions to make it costly for unions or associations who engage in work stoppages, professional study days, or whatever euphemism for strike is "in" these days.

Between the two extremes — those who want a complete overhaul and those who insist on keeping their heads buried in the sand, ignoring some real problems exist in public employe relations — there is plenty of middle ground for effective study and change.

That there are some big problems in the employment relations picture in the public sector is hard to ignore.

WITHIN the last two years for example, there have been police and firemen's strikes in Youngstown and Elyria, teacher strikes in Portsmouth, Martins Ferry, Cincinnati, Lancaster and Youngstown, blue collar worker strikes on at least two state university campuses and municipal and county employe strikes in Toledo, Youngstown, Dayton, Elyria, Akron, East Liverpool, Mansfield, Columbus and Franklin and Cuyahoga counties.

Opponents of liberalizing the public employe relations statute point out that the Ferguson Act would work if employers would just use it against striking public employes.

It was tried once recently, and worked. That was in Franklin County, where 74 county home and hospital employes and 69 welfare department workers were fired for failing to report to work — a provision of the Ferguson Act, which was adopted in 1947.

BUT the Franklin County Welfare strike was one of the few cases in Ohio where the full power of the Fetguson Act was used successfully against striking public employes.

That conflict, and a few others where nonprofessional or quasi-professional employes are involved, might be ended with use of the Ferguson Act.

But for every case where the law can be used effectively, there are probably a dozen where it can't be, and it is in these latter areas where some real legislative concern is being shown.

For example, how do you replace an entire teaching staff, the entire police and fire department, the entire penitentiary guard staff?

YOU OBVIOUSLY don't, and you obviously need some direction from the state in the area of public employ relations, say those in favor of throwing out the Ferguson Act.

That law does permit rehiring of fired employes, but at a distinct disadvantage, including no job security for the first two years and no chance of advancement for the same period.

Unions, particularly the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes — which represents some 25,000 public employes in Ohio — naturally favor the Senate bill calling for repeal of the Ferguson Act and creation of a comprehensive public employe relations law.

STATE REP. Robert E. Levitt, R-Canton, who long has maintained an interest in the direction public employe relations should take, seriously doubts that the mere creation of a State Labor Relations Board — as the Senate bill proposes — to mediate and order fact finding would put an end to labor strife.

It actually might have the opposite effect, says Levitt, who headed a months-long committee investigation in 1968 into public employe labor relations.

"In those states which have comprehensive public employe relations acts, the number of strkes have diminished, but they sure haven't been stopped," the House floor leader said.

AND, IN THOSE states where negotations are mandated, unionism has been given a hand-up.

But, Levitt cautions, when unionism flourishes, militancy results, and the taxpayer is stuck for picking up the bill for increased wages, or services are cutback to make up for fatter pay checks.

While Levitt sees the need for modernizing the Ferguson Act by, say, permitting school boards and other public employers to recognize unions and associations, he doesn't think it's fair to mandate that all employers negotiate with the unions, as the Senate bill proposes.

THERE ARE at least two problems, both involving competency of many employers who many times are elected officials in whom the public has placed its trust, in dealing with contract negotiations with experienced union leaders.

He said some municipalities could do the job well, but there is little reason why the mayors of all the hamlets and villages in Ohio should be expected to enter the field of labor negotiations — localities where in all probability employer-employe relations have been good over the years.

Levitt also sees a weakness in the Senate bill in providing the state to get into the labor negotiations act. The state, like the small town mayor, really has no particular competency in the labor relations field.

HE NOTED that in all states which adopted a comprehensive public employe relations law, they first had a state labor relations board, similar to the National Labor Relations Board, to handle private sector labor problems which didn't fall under the jurisdiction of the NRLB.

Ohio has no such law, and the state would find itself highly inexperienced in dealing with labor negotiations, Levitt said.

Recognition of bargaining agents still pose a problem since under law, public employers aren't permitted to negotiate, although many, faced with the labor realities of the day, do.

THERE ARE several bills in a House subcommittee undergoing hearings now that would permit the employes, be they municipalities, school boards, county commissioners or whatever, to recognize bargaining agents and to negotiate contracts.

Ferguson Act Seen Safe

By JOHN R. THOMAS
Review Staff Correspondent

COLUMBUS, Ohio — The Ohio General Assembly might take action extending bargaining and recognition rights to public employe unions and associations, but it certainly will not go so far as to wipe out the 22-year-old Ferguson Act.

There are those, of course, who would like to see the Ferguson Act, which prohibits strikes by public employes, thrown out and replaced wth a comprehensive public employe bargaining law. A bill has been introduced in the Senate which would do just that.

THEN THERE ARE those who, because of personal or philosophical reasons, would continue the Ferguson Act, and maybe even toughen up its provisions to make it costly for unions or associations who engage in work stoppages, professional study days, or whatever euphemism for strike is "in" these days.

The DOCTOR Says

Baby Needs Cooling On Summer Days

Dr. Brandstadt

DURING THE HOT summer days when you are trying to keep cool don't forget that it is important to keep your baby cool, too. If you don't, he can't complain to you in words but his prickly heat should give you the message.

This can make him very fretful. Heat rash is best prevented by not overdressing him and by mopping up his perspiration, especially on his neck and other skin creases.

A tepid bath two or three times a day, followed by dusting his skin with cornstarch or a heat rash powder helps to prevent or cure prickly heat. Or you may dab the affected areas with a solution of one teaspoon of baking soda in a cup of water.

WHEN THE ROOM temperature is 85 or more your baby doesn't need to wear anything but a diaper. Some babies, however, are more comfortable on a hot day if they also wear a light undershirt.

Spare him the agony of waterproof pants whenever possible. If such pants cause a diaper rash, you should leave off his diaper for a few hours during the day. Air and a small dose of sunlight will clear up the rash.

For most of the time that your baby is outdoors in the summer you must protect his delicate skin and his eyes from the sun. If he is old enough to creep, he should wear a broad-brimmed hat when he is in the sun.

Offer him water every hour or two even if he doesn't drink much of it. He can't get up and get it for himself. And when he does want it, he wants it badly.

Q — Our son, 8, passes out whenever he gets hurt. As a result he sometimes falls and bruises his head. What causes this? Will he outgrow it?

A — Fainting is caused by failure of sufficient blood to reach the brain. It is fairly common for a painful experience to cause fainting in children. A child who is subject to such spells should learn to lie down immediately, no matter where he is, at the first feeling or expectation of pain. Most children do outgrow this trait in time.

Q — Can a lack of fresh air in a child's bedroom stunt his mental or physical development?

A—No. More air gets into a bedroom, even with all windows closed, than most people realize.

Two Places Bombed In Cleveland Sunday

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Cleveland police investigating two bombings within 72 city blocks and one hour apart early Sunday were unable to find a motive for either incident.

The first explosion hit the home of a widow, Margaret Munko, 69, on East 151st Street at 4:05 a.m. Mrs. Munko, who was treated by a doctor for shock, told police she had received no threats and could not imagine why anyone would want to bomb her home.

The second device exploded at 5:03 a.m. at the Slovak Civic Club on East 79th Street.

Both were dynamite bombs rigged to timing devices, but police said there appeared to be no connection between the two incidents.

Pension Fund Smoke Signals

Organized labor is setting up a howl over preliminary moves on the part of the Nixon administration to start a nationwide investigation of Mafia influence on private pension funds.

In a letter to Secretary of Labor George P. Shultz, Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell said the $100 billion controlled by pension funds has become "a prime target for takeover . . . infiltration and manpulation by organized crminals."

LOBBYISTS FOR the AFL-CIO are active on Capitol Hill trying to convince legislators to oppose the investigation.

They are keying on the request for $2 million to finance the probe, saying the expenditure cannot be justified under the tight budget restrictions presently limiting federal spending.

Interesting isn't it that organized labor is suddenly excited about the national economy in relation to a $2-million expenditure when the failure of union leaders to adhere to voluntary restraints in contract negotiations has been a prime factor in this nation's economic troubles.

The lack of federal regulations concerning investment of the tax-exempt billions in pension funds makes them a logical target for organized crime.

Just last year the House Labor Committee conducted an inquiry into union and management pension plans and reported "disturbing instances of . . . looting, misuse of funds, dangerous self-dealing on the part of trustees and similar dishonesty have been uncovered."

Not all pension programs are operating under the umbrella of manipulation, but sufficient evidence has been gathered to call for an investigation. Those operating above board have nothing to fear.

A lobbyist for organized labor probably put his finger on the real reason for opposition to the investigative proposal when he expressed concern "about the implications" of the probe.

THE SPOKESMAN didn't elaborate but Washington insiders report the Labor Department has raised the possibility the check would extend to other union activities.

Information uncovered by the House committee and material gathered by the Labor Dpartment present a strong argument for the inquiry, organized labor's objections notwithstanding.

The Role Of Civil Defense

Some valuable services have been rendered to this district in past years by Civil Defense volunteers despite occasional handicaps such as lack of adequate manpower, equipment and organization.

To provide for adequate protection, feeding and medical care of this nation in the aftermath of the holocaust of an atomic attack seems almost an impossibility to some.

But the effort of Civil Defense cannot be written off when men and materials are available and when there is an obligation to safeguard our country against an enemy willing to resort to a sneak attack.

The important role of the local CD in any kind of district emergency has been proven, and will continue to be vital. Appointment of Al Sayre as director and the addition of new members to the organization should increase the effectiveness of this group and add to the response capacity of the community in time of need.

A Needed Precaution

We hope the value of the General Assembly's adoption of a bill to allow the Ohio Highway Patrol to intervene in local riots never has to be proved.

Nevertheless, we believe the authorizing legislation is a wise move on the part of the lawmakers.

The built-in safeguards of requiring a request from local offcials for use of the partol, and the subsequent approval of the governor seem sufficient to avoid abuse of the power.

Whether we like it or not, we live in a society that has a violent side and steps must be taken to control it—preferably precautionary steps.

Sen. William B. Nye of Akron led the Democratic opposition to the bill on the grounds it was a step toward a police state and would take patrolmen off the highway who are needed to see traffic safety.

We suspect the traditional labor-backed Democratic opposition to use of state patrolmen in union violence may have played a larger role in the criticism than Sen. Nye would admit.

As far as pulling highway patrolmen away from traffic assignments is concerned, we believe a question of priority is involved here.

Sen. Nye suggests use of the Ohio National Guard is the best means of controlling a riot situation.

The advantage of being able to summon state patrolmen to a scene of violence is the time factor. They simply can get to the scene faster.

Mobilization of the Ohio National Guard is time consuming and the advantage of immediate action is lost when it is called.

Guardsmen, after being mobilized, can be used to replace patrolmen and free the officers to go back to regular duties.

The General Assembly is to be commended for its foresight in approving a bill that provides the means for the quick squelching of a dangerous stuation instead of having to deal with prolonged violence.

Home Rule Principle Ignored

If the Ohio Senate has its way, 91 per cent of this state's population will have fluoridated water whether it is wanted or not.

The Senate approved a bill 23-10 Wednesday that would require all water supplies serving 20,000 or more persons be fluoridated by Jan. 1, 1971, and those serving 5,000 to 20,000 by Jan. 1, 1972.

Presently, about 42 per cent of Ohio's population has fluoridated water which was approved by referendum in individual communities.

The Senate-passed measure now goes to the House where, hopefully, representatives will show more appreciation for home rule than id many of Oho's senators.

Sens. Ralph S. Regula, R-Navarre, Michael J. Maloney, R-7 Cincinnati, and Robin T. Turner, R-14 Marion, voiced strong opposition to the fluoridation bill.

All three contend the bill violates the principle of home rule because it deprives citizens of the right to make their own decision on the matter.

In addition, Sen Regula pointed out that advantages of fluoridation can be obtained in ways other than through a city's water supply, and it is cheaper to have a dentist apply fluoride to teeth than to add it to drinking water.

The GOP senator also questioned the wisdom of fluoridating an entire water system at considerable cost when it supposedly is beneficial only to children.

The House is faced with the opportunity of restoring dignity to the home-rule principle by rejecting the mandatory fluoridation bill.

Athletics Defended

We the undersigned, concerned citizens of East Liverpool, believe a great injustice has been done to the members of our community and to our head football coach and athletic director, Mr. Robert McNea. We feel that in the recent study, compiled by the P.R.R., Mr. McNea was not afforded the opportunity to defend himself, hs policies, or any member of his staff concerning the charges filed against him by the members of the E.L.T.A.

We feel that the original members of the P.R.R. were biased in the fact that all said members were teachers and none had any background for dealing with the athletic problems in our school system.

We do feel that the P.R.R. made many good recommendations, but we are not in accord with recommendation No. 3 because we feel that the conflict in our system stems, not from the fact that Mr. Robert McNea holds the positions of both head football coach and athletic director, but rather it is one of academics vs. athletics. Add to this the indecisiveness of a weak, easily swayed school administration, and there you will find the "root" of the problem.

We further feel that along with academics, athletics play a very important roll in the education of our young people. Athletics instill pride and sportsmanship in the student body as well as in the athletes themselves. We do not feel, however, that the athletic program of East Liverpool High School has, in any way, been detrimental to the academic program. On the contrary, the boys in our system who have received college scholarships have been helped, not hindered, by our athletic program. Since, by state law, athletics must be self - supporting, it in no way determines or dictates the academic superiority or inferiority of our system.

We feel it is time the "behind closed doors" policy of this administration be terminated. We feel the citizens of this community have the right to hear both sides of the conflict. For this reason, we ask that an open study be done eliciting the opinions, not only of teachers, but also the athletic coaches of our children, the athletes themselves, and the citizens of our community.

Our Ultimate Objectives

Since the President of the United States has so many diplomatic irons in the fire, what he says at one time on any one subject must fall short of a complete statement of both immediate and ultimate objectives. This was true of Mr. Nixon's address on Vietnam May 14.

For his immediate objective was to provide background for his negotiators in Paris. This was to bring about a halt in the fighting, stop the aggressive actions of Hanoi and its stooges, the Viet Cong, and to eliminate Hanoi's intrusion into Laos and Cambodia.

Beyond this there was the suggestion that should we abandon those immediate objectives the remaining countries in Southeast Asia, Thailand and the Malay Peninsula would soon succumb to overwhelming Communist pressure from the east and north. Thus the major concern is to keep all of the peninsula of Southeast Asia within the orbit of the non-Communist world.

THERE WAS EVEN implicit in the Nixon broadcast the vital concern of other countries on the great perimeter from Japan to Korea, to Australia and New Zealand. This is the so-called "domino" theory: If Southeast Asia falls, we might be fighting in larger wars within two years' time. For the United States, because of its role after World War II, proposed to defend the sovereignty of those other countries.

The United States did not seek these responsibilities. They fell upon us because of our victory over Japan, our overwhelming naval power and our concern for Taiwan, the Philippines and Australia. And because of British weakness at home, which has made inevitable the withdrawal of the erstwhile Queen of the Seas from its Asiatic commitments.

Basic in all this is the responsibility of our nation as the world's greatest naval power. And here, because our only naval and potential challenger on the sea is Soviet Russia, the President did not choose to comment.

That, no doubt, was because of our urgent desire to reach agreements to limit the danger of nuclear war. But there is no doubt that all three presidents who have moved in defense of South Vietnam have realized this ultimate objective.

That ultimate objective is to keep the sea lanes open to the commerce of all nations. This is what we mean by "freedom of the seas."

In a real sense, this freedom in the past has been and still is whatever a nation with dominant naval power chooses to protect. For more than a century that nation was Great Britain. Since World War II it has been the United States.

This domination carries with it the responsibility to protect our own commerce as well as that of other nations, small and large. In the Far East our naval and air power assures access to the sea by all of the countries described above, as well as Soviet Russia.

Clearly, to understand why we must seek to keep the peninsula of Southeast Asia within the orbit of the Free World, we should study the map. Immediately to the south and adjacent to South Vietnam, Cambodia, Thailand and the Malay Peninsula is the channel between the Pacific and Indian oceans. The great sea lanes thus run through the Strait of Malacca. This is one of the busiest channels in the world.

It is of vital concern to every maritime nation. For beyond that strait are western Australia, India, Pakistan and the Arab countries and eastern Africa. These areas bordering on the Indian (or, as our Navy calls it, the Southern) Ocean have immense resources of raw materials essential to all industrial nations, as well as markets for manufactured goods.

THE UNITED STATES and the Western Hemisphere are no longer self-sufficient. Some of our essential materials must come from the Pacific and beyond. And this stuff must come and go by sea. Nearly all of what is needed for our forces in Vietnam must travel in ships.

As I shall show next week, Soviet Russia, as well as other maritime nations, has a great interest in the Indian Ocean. Thus Asiatic communism, which might mean an enlarged North Vietnam or Red China, must not dominate Southeast Asia and thus threaten this great sea lane.

Dissent

WASHINGTON — While President Nixon is trying to negotiate peace in Vietnam and bring an end to the war, critics of various kinds are stabbing him in the back. They are telling the world that the American people do not want to spend so much money for military operations abroad and would rather use it for a variety of programs on the domestic side.

Mr. Nixon sought, in his speech Wednesday at the Ar Force Academy in Colorado, to tell the world that the United States will not surrender and will not ignore the many sacrifices that have been made to establish the principle that nations, large and small, should have the right of self-determination.

But those whom the President calls the "new isolationists" seem to think that the war in Vietnam is of no importance to the people of the United States. The crusade against the war has gone so far that military leaders are even being enounced for the strategy they use on the battlefields.

SOME OF THE SENATORS who have been making speeches condemning the President's policies claim they are not attacking the military men but only the "politicians." Yet in Congress today it is apparent that these same persons are playing politics themselves, for they think opposition to the war is popular.

Mr. Nixon, in his speech, pointed out that the "isolationist school of thought" has simplistic and powerful slogans such as "charity begins at home" or "let's first solve our problems at home and then we can deal with the problems of the world."

Most of the speeches made in criticism of the policies in Vietnam of both the present and the preceding administration are based on the assumption that, if the United States quits the war, everything will be all right in Southeast Asia and the United States will never be "entangled" again.

The President, however, emphasized that "we must revitalize our alliances, not abandon them," and that "we must rule out unilateral disarmament because, in the real world, it won't work."

What is amazing is that hardly any of the critics are realistic about what the enemy is doing — the enormous amount of money and support that the Soviet Union and Red China have given to North Vietnam and will continue to give, particularly if the United States shows any sign of weakness.

What the President was apparently most concerned about in his address is the effect the opposition speeches in Congress may have on the military services themselves. He was talking to young men who are about to become offcers in the United States Air Force.

The President significantly explained the objectives of the United States. He declared the United States must take calculated risks for peace, but added:

"We shall not trade our defenses for a disarming smile or charming words. We are prepared for new initiatives in the control of arms, in the context of other specific moves to reduce tensions around the world. . .

"And I believe this above all: that this nation shall continue to be a source of world leadership and a source of freedom's strength, in creating a just world order that will bring an end to war."

BUT, INSPIRING as were Mr. Nixon's words to those who believe the sacrifices in Vietnam should not be in vain, the Communists today can read the American press and discern that a "political complex" has undermined the prestige of United States negotiators in Paris and cast doubt upon the attitude of Congress itself.

The effect can only be that the enemy will be even more insistent on American surrender. The United States will not agree and the war will go on indefinitely.

The responsibility for the prolongation will be right here at home. For, while the right of dissent is legitimate, sometimes it is not exercised with discretion or with regard to the true meaning of patriotism.

Pension Fund Smoke Signals

Organized labor is setting up a howl over preliminary moves on the part of the Nixon administration to start a nationwide investigation of Mafia influence on private pension funds.

In a letter to Secretary of Labor George P. Shultz, Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell said the $100 billion controlled by pension funds has become "a prime target for takeover . . . infiltration and manpulation by organized crminals."

LOBBYISTS FOR the AFL-CIO are active on Capitol Hill trying to convince legislators to oppose the investigation.

They are keying on the request for $2 million to finance the probe, saying the expenditure cannot be justified under the tight budget restrictions presently limiting federal spending.

Interesting isn't it that organized labor is suddenly excited about the national economy in relation to a $2-million expenditure when the failure of union leaders to adhere to voluntary restraints in contract negotiations has been a prime factor in this nation's economic troubles.

The lack of federal regulations concerning investment of the tax-exempt billions in pension funds makes them a logical target for organized crime.

Just last year the House Labor Committee conducted an inquiry into union and management pension plans and reported "disturbing instances of . . . looting, misuse of funds, dangerous self-dealing on the part of trustees and similar dishonesty have been uncovered."

Not all pension programs are operating under the umbrella of manipulation, but sufficient evidence has been gathered to call for an investigation. Those operating above board have nothing to fear.

A lobbyist for organized labor probably put his finger on the real reason for opposition to the investigative proposal when he expressed concern "about the implications" of the probe.

THE SPOKESMAN didn't elaborate but Washington insiders report the Labor Department has raised the possibility the check would extend to other union activities.

Information uncovered by the House committee and material gathered by the Labor Dpartment present a strong argument for the inquiry, organized labor's objections notwithstanding.

The President significantly explained the objectives of the United States. He declared the United States must take calculated risks for peace, but added:

"We shall not trade our defenses for a disarming smile or charming words. We are prepared for new initiatives in the control of arms, in the context of other specific moves to reduce tensions around the world. . .

"And I believe this above all: that this nation shall continue to be a source of world leadership and a source of freedom's strength, in creating a just world order that will bring an end to war."

BUT, INSPIRING as were Mr. Nixon's words to those who believe the sacrifices in Vietnam should not be in vain, the Communists today can read the American press and discern that a "political complex" has undermined the prestige of United States negotiators in Paris and cast doubt upon the attitude of Congress itself.

The effect can only be that the enemy will be even more insistent on American surrender. The United States will not agree and the war will go on indefinitely.

The responsibility for the prolongation will be right here at home. For, while the right of dissent is legitimate, sometimes it is not exercised with discretion or with regard to the true meaning of patriotism.

Through The Years

THIRTY YEARS AGO — Miss Audrey Foreman of Bloomfield, whose hobby was postcard exchange, received about 1,000 cards in 10 months from every state in the union, Canada, Mexico, Scotland, Alaska, England, Sweden, Africa, France, Japan and China. And she answered every one.

Herman H. Roth was named police captain for a 90-day period to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of J. Norman McFarland.

TWENTY YEARS AGO — The East Liverpool Humane Society protested against the conditions that existed at the city's dog pound.

Pfc. Jay W. Wollam of RD 2 was graduated from the Air Force Communications School at Scott Field, Ill., as a radio mechanic.

A. L. Rabenstein of Chester, superintendent of Hancock County schools, and Robert E. Hall, assistant superintendent, were reappointed for four terms.

TEN YEARS AGO — Mrs. Madge Miller was elected president of the Confraternity of Christian Mothers of Wellsville.

Sarah Starkey, Norman Vodrey, Judson McLevey and James Dickey, all of the East Liverpool area, were graduated from Ohio Wesleyan University.

Sitar Player Frowns On Trend In Music

POONA, India (AP) — Ustad Vilayat Khan, described as one of the best sitar players of all times, believes the modern trend toward a synthesis of Indian classical music and western music would be ruinous for both.

He said the recent release of an L.P. album by Yehudi Menuhin and Ravi Shankar was "a faulty experiment."

Asked to comment on Beatle George Harrison's interest in the sitar, Vilayat Khan said: "A sitar recital by the Beatle is like a satire on Indian music."

Sitar Player Frowns On Trend In Music

POONA, India (AP) — Ustad Vilayat Khan, described as one of the best sitar players of all times, believes the modern trend toward a synthesis of Indian classical music and western music would be ruinous for both.

He said the recent release of an L.P. album by Yehudi Menuhin and Ravi Shankar was "a faulty experiment."

Asked to comment on Beatle George Harrison's interest in the sitar, Vilayat Khan said: "A sitar recital by the Beatle is like a satire on Indian music."

Involves Millions Of Dollars

Mafia Loan Shark, Son Cited In Suspicious Deals

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Mafia loan shark and his son are involved in a nationwide series of deals in which millions of dollars of commercial loans were obtained by using questionable insurance policies and bonds as collateral.

The names of John A. Masiello Sr. and his son, John Jr., turned up in an investigation of the severe financial problems of insurance companies in Oklahoma, Florida and Arizona.

Earlier this year, the elder Masiello was also in the news when the New York State Investigation Commission disclosed that companies he controlled had received more than a half-million-dollars in Small Business Administration loans. The SBA loans have since been recalled and repaid.

The commission identified the elder Masiello as a member of the Mafia organization formerly headed by Vito Genovtse. Both father and son also are under indictment on bribery and conspiracy charges in connection with Post Office Department mail hauling contracts.

As part of the insurance deals, the Masiellos received most of $550,000 lent by a New York bank. Collateral for the loans was insurance policies and surety bonds issued by companies in Oklahoma and Florida.

And a $150,000 bond issued by the Florida company was used to purchase a paid up annuity from the Arizona insurance firm for John Masiello Jr. Annuities from the Arizona firm also are being used as collateral for loans.

Rep. Wright Patman, D-Tex., chairman of the House Banking Committee, recently warned federal banking officials that "a large number of banks across the country stand to lose millions of dollars in loans collateralized by questionable insurance policies." Patman put the total at $25 million.

The Masiello loans are just a small part of the wheeling and dealing now unfolding9

Investigators are checking possible links to other Mafia members.

They also are trying to unravel the tangle of deals which have led to financial woes of these companies:

—State Fire and Casualty Co. of Miami, Fla. This firm had been licensed to write insurance in 26 states before Florida officials announced it was $8 million in the red and asked a court to dissolve it.

—Community National Life Insurance Co. of Tulsa, Okla. It is in court custody while an interim management group appointed by the court tries to determine the extent of its losses.

—Financial Security Life Insurance Co. of Phoenix, Ariz. It was suspended by the state after a $75,000 company check bounced. Officials estimate it is more than $7 million in the red.

But, say investigators, hardest hit are thousands of people who may lose their investments in life insurance issued by the companies and whose claims may never be paid.

One example is the widow of a soldier killed last November in Vietnam The widow, whom investigators would not identify, is awaiting the outcome of an audit to learn how much, if anything, she will collect on the $75,000 policy he had with Community National.

According to testimony at a public hearing, Community National did a lot of business with people who used virtually worthless stock to purchase single premium, paid up life insurance policies.

Stuart C. Goldberg, a Securities and Exchange Commission enforcement attorney, sketched the dealings at the April 2 hearing before the Oklahoma insurance commissioner. Goldberg had been an assistant U.S. attorney in New York until last January when he was asked to join the SEC to handle this complex case.

He told the hearing that Community National issued paid up life insurance policies with a total face value of $4.7 million in exchange for stock valued at only a tiny faction of that amount.

And some of the same questionable stock mentioned in the Oklahoma hearing was listed among the assets of State Fire and Casualty Co. of Florida. Surety bonds issued by State Fire are turning up as collateral for loans in New York. Investigators, still tracking down the bonds, estimate the total will run as high as $10 million.

Annuities issued by Financial Security Life Insurance Co. of Arizona also are turning up as collateral for still other loans. The Arizona insurance commissioner said the policies haven't been paid for and therefore are of questionable value as collateral. He estimated the company issued about $4 million worth of such policies before its license was suspended April 18.

At the Oklahoma hearing, SEC attorney Goldberg described the method used to inflate the value of virtually worthless stock, foist it onto insurance companies and then use insurance policies to obtain bank loans.

For example, listed among Community Nation's assets were 302,000 shares of stock in Commercial Finance Corp. of Newark, N.J. On the insurance company's books, this stock was valued at $1,052,000, but Goldberg testified that in the summer of 1968 the New Jersey firm "was a corporate shell. It had no assets, no liabilities and no tax advantage."

According to Goldberg's testimony, Frank G. Buffam—a veteran confidence man who specialized in trading in worthless securities—had succeeded in setting a price for Commercial Finance Corp. stock in the over-the-counter market.

Buffam, who owned all the Commercial Finance stock, called a broker and told him he wanted to buy Commercial Finance stock and would bid $3 a share, the SEC attorney said.

The standard reference listing for over-the-counter stocks is called the pink sheets. When Buffam placed his order in October, 1968, Commercial Finance was not listed in the pink sheets. As soon as an order—in this case from Buffam—was placed the stock was listed along with the amount bid.

"The quotes that appear in the pink sheets mean absolutely nothing," Goldberg said. "Anybody can call up a broker and tell him 'Buy me a share of Commercial Finance at a thousand dollars.' And the broker could then put in a bid at $1,000 into the pink sheets."

The SEC suspended trading in Commercial Finance stock in March. However, prior to then Masiello and others had obtained some of the company's stock, and Community National had accepted the stock from them at about the $3 value as payment for life insurance policies. Goldberg testified that Commercial Finance stock was selling in New York for a penny a share.

One of the single premium policies purchased with the stock had a face value of $110,000 and was issued on the life of John A. Masiello Jr., with his father as owner. Another, also for $110,000, was purchased by Maurice A. Minuto, a Long Island, N.Y., plastics manufacturer.

These two policies, which had a cash value of $100,000 each, then were used as collateral for a pair of $100,000 loans from the Royal National Bank of New York, Goldberg testified.

Solon Family Terrorized By 3 Gunmen

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Police are seeking three gunmen who terrorized and robbed a Solon family in their home early Sunday.

The gunmen got into the home of Ronald D. McLellans, a Cleveland Trust Co. executive, after stopping McLellan's nephew, David Steer, 16, on Kinsman Road in Cleveland, police said.

Steer, who lives in Chagrin Falls with his mother, Mrs. Maxine Steer, told police the men pistol-whipped him, robbed nim and threatened to kill him.

When the men got only $4 from him, they asked him if he had any money at home, Steer told police. When he said he did they ordered him to show him the way.

Steer said he decided to go to his uncle's home instead.

The men ransacked the home and forced Steer at gunpoint to help load loot into the car, police reported. Taken was a console color television, a portable television, a pearl neckless valued at $700, a case of liquor, sterling silver and jewelry.

Section Of Alliance Ripped By Vandalism

ALLIANCE, Ohio (AP) — Police from surrounding areas were called to help patrol Alliance streets Sunday night after an outbreak of vandalism and a firebombing in the city's Negro area.

Four molotov cocktails reportedly were thrown into the Liberty bar. The windows of a jewelry store were smashed, and incidents of rock and bottle throwing were reported.

It was not known immediately what set off the outburst.

Services Set Wednesday For Robert Taylor, 57

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Robert Tayor, leading man to many of the most glamorous stars in films during a career which spanned 35 years, is dead of cancer at 57.

The Nebraskan's dark good looks projected him to the top in 1935 opposite Irene Dunne in "Magnificent Obsession" and Greta Garbo in "Camille."

During his career he was also billed with such names as Jean Harlow, Ava Gardner, Elizabeth Taylor, Myrna Loy, Joan Crawford, Hedy Lamarr, Lana Turner, Katharine Hepburn and Greer Garson—usually in sentimental films designed to appeal to women.

He was married to another star, Barbara Stanwyck, for 11 years.

In his biggest years, around 1940 to 1950, Taylor was one of the screen's highest paid actors. But he said he never planned it that way.

"I went into acting because it was the only job offered to me at the time," he said once. "It's not my sole interest in life, being an actor, but it's the only one that made me any money."

He threw himself vigorously into his other interests: flying, hunting, fishing and ranching.

Before he died of lung cancer Sunday, Taylor had been in and out of the hospital seven times in nine months. He spent the rest of the time at his 113-acre suburban ranch, where he raised quarter horses and chickens.

A spokesman said Taylor knew his disease, discovered late last year, was terminal. The 170-pound 6-footer quit smoking cigarettes in October before most of a lung was removed because of what was then described as a fungus infection called valley fever. He had been a three-pack-a-day man who said he "smoked since I was a kid."

Taylor was under contract to Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio from 1934 to 1958—a Hollywood record for a star—graduating from pretty-boy roles as his face creased and his wavy dark hair thinned.

From 1959 to 1962 he played a tough cop on the television series "The Detective." Since 1966 he had appeared on the "Death Valley Days" show.

We're moving towards Summer - - the bearer of bright sunny days full of health and vigor . . . But alas! — also the carrier of impending danger and sorrow.

A common cause for grief is over-exposure to sunlight! . . .

HEAT-CRAMPS, caused by excessive sweating with loss of water and salt . . . H E A T PROSTRATION, due to faulty heart action, characterized by fainting spells — shock . . . SUN STROKES (Hyperpiexia) where the mechanism, controlling heat in the body, ceases to work. Fever rises unchecked; results are piercing headaches, vomiting, dehydration, delirium — and even death!

Tom Rudebock of Leetonia RD 1, president, will be in charge.

Town Wages War On Rats

SMOCK, Pa. (AP) — The village of Smock and some of its 300 families are waging war—on a pack of hungry rats.

No one is quite sure of the strength of the pack although a teen-age youth claims he killed 150 rats during a three-day period last week. But there's no doubt the foe is formidable.

"Some are as large as rabbits," says James Abbott, a constable and the town's only law officer.

Abbott said the rats started to move into the village after the state Health Department closed a garbage dump, closing off their food supply. The owners were ordered to spread poison around the dump, but they apparently didn't use enough, he said.

Several persons started shooting the rats Sunday.

"It sound like the Fourth of July around here now," Abbott said. "But we don't mind them shooting the rats as long as they are careful not to shoot themselves."

The rat invasion also has triggered an avalanche of home remedies.

"Everyone has a solution to the rat problem," said Abbott. "We got a call from one lady who suggested setting off alarm clocks in the yard at different times to scare them away. But I don't know if anyone tried that."

Mike Omatick, supervising sanitarian for the state health department, said the problem has subsided in the past few days. He said he expects it to end by the end of the week after the rats have been fed more poison.

So far a 5-year-old boy is the only victim of the pack. He was bitten on th ankle and is receiving treatment for rabies.

The Wendell Pikes, whose 15-year-old son killed the 150 rats, live closest to the dump.

"This is just like one huge nightmare," said Mrs. Pike. "I walk around the house with a baseball bat knowing they are around somewhere waiting to find something to eat."

Mrs. Pike said the rats set off traps as soon as they are set.

Her main concern, she said, is for children who play in the yard of the Smock Elementary School near the dump.

"You can watch the rats scatter as the children come out for recess," she said. "The children don't seem bothered by them, because they think it is fun throwing rocks at them."

Town Wages War On Rats

SMOCK, Pa. (AP) — The village of Smock and some of its 300 families are waging war—on a pack of hungry rats.

No one is quite sure of the strength of the pack although a teen-age youth claims he killed 150 rats during a three-day period last week. But there's no doubt the foe is formidable.

"Some are as large as rabbits," says James Abbott, a constable and the town's only law officer.

Abbott said the rats started to move into the village after the state Health Department closed a garbage dump, closing off their food supply. The owners were ordered to spread poison around the dump, but they apparently didn't use enough, he said.

Several persons started shooting the rats Sunday.

"It sound like the Fourth of July around here now," Abbott said. "But we don't mind them shooting the rats as long as they are careful not to shoot themselves."

The rat invasion also has triggered an avalanche of home remedies.

"Everyone has a solution to the rat problem," said Abbott. "We got a call from one lady who suggested setting off alarm clocks in the yard at different times to scare them away. But I don't know if anyone tried that."

Mike Omatick, supervising sanitarian for the state health department, said the problem has subsided in the past few days. He said he expects it to end by the end of the week after the rats have been fed more poison.

So far a 5-year-old boy is the only victim of the pack. He was bitten on th ankle and is receiving treatment for rabies.

The Wendell Pikes, whose 15-year-old son killed the 150 rats, live closest to the dump.

"This is just like one huge nightmare," said Mrs. Pike. "I walk around the house with a baseball bat knowing they are around somewhere waiting to find something to eat."

Mrs. Pike said the rats set off traps as soon as they are set.

Her main concern, she said, is for children who play in the yard of the Smock Elementary School near the dump.

"You can watch the rats scatter as the children come out for recess," she said. "The children don't seem bothered by them, because they think it is fun throwing rocks at them."

Town Wages War On Rats

SMOCK, Pa. (AP) — The village of Smock and some of its 300 families are waging war—on a pack of hungry rats.

No one is quite sure of the strength of the pack although a teen-age youth claims he killed 150 rats during a three-day period last week. But there's no doubt the foe is formidable.

"Some are as large as rabbits," says James Abbott, a constable and the town's only law officer.

Abbott said the rats started to move into the village after the state Health Department closed a garbage dump, closing off their food supply. The owners were ordered to spread poison around the dump, but they apparently didn't use enough, he said.

Several persons started shooting the rats Sunday.

"It sound like the Fourth of July around here now," Abbott said. "But we don't mind them shooting the rats as long as they are careful not to shoot themselves."

The rat invasion also has triggered an avalanche of home remedies.

"Everyone has a solution to the rat problem," said Abbott. "We got a call from one lady who suggested setting off alarm clocks in the yard at different times to scare them away. But I don't know if anyone tried that."

Mike Omatick, supervising sanitarian for the state health department, said the problem has subsided in the past few days. He said he expects it to end by the end of the week after the rats have been fed more poison.

So far a 5-year-old boy is the only victim of the pack. He was bitten on th ankle and is receiving treatment for rabies.

The Wendell Pikes, whose 15-year-old son killed the 150 rats, live closest to the dump.

"This is just like one huge nightmare," said Mrs. Pike. "I walk around the house with a baseball bat knowing they are around somewhere waiting to find something to eat."

Mrs. Pike said the rats set off traps as soon as they are set.

Her main concern, she said, is for children who play in the yard of the Smock Elementary School near the dump.

"You can watch the rats scatter as the children come out for recess," she said. "The children don't seem bothered by them, because they think it is fun throwing rocks at them."

for two or three days, then pull back, regroup and hit again later.

U.S. headquarters said eight of the attacks Sunday night were significant, meaning they caused casualties or damage

The heaviest attack was against South Vietnamese paratroopers along the Cambodian Border protecting Tay Ninh City, 55 miles northwest of Saigon.

North Vietnamese troops fired more than 200 rockets and mortars into theire night bivouac then followd with a ground assault. The four-hour battle lasted until dawn and a spokesman said 37 North Vietnamese were killed. South Vietnamese losses were three killed and a number of wounded.

Three of the enemy attacks by rockets and mortars, apparently aimed for military posts, fell into populated areas instead. South Vietnamese headquarters said eight civilians were killed and 41 wounded.

stands at 538,500 although before he left office President Lyndon B. Johnson gave the Pentagon authority to put as many as 549,500 in Vietnam. In recent months top military officers decided the additional forces were not necessary.

Nixon held out hope that further troop withdrawals, something he promised as a presidential candidate, will be possible this year.

"During the month of August and at regular intervals thereafter we shall review the situation . . .," Nixon said. "I will announce plans for further replacements as decisions are made."

In recent days published speculation had centered on 50,000 troops being removed from the war zone by fall.

In choosing something less dramatic, the Nixon administration probably considered various factors such as:

—A big reduction in the American force might have been construed by North Vietnamese negotiators in Paris as a weakening of U.S. determination to continue supporting the war.

—The North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces still have the ability to kill 100-200 Americans each week, and the United States must not cut its combat effectiveness too sharply in one move.

—The training and equipping of South Vietnamese forces is moving along satisfactorily, but Pentagon officials expect it will be next fall or later before the South Vietnamese can replace American troops in substantial numbers.

by a large segment of House Republicans, including the leaders. They have endorsed direct, popular elections, eliminating the electoral votes, and the prospects for passage of such an amendment when the House takes it up in a few weeks are considered good.

Nixon wanted to avoid tax reform legislation this year, making it the subject of a study while he concentrated on getting the 10 per cent surtax continued. But largely as the result of pressure from Republicans, who saw tax reform as a potent political issue and didn't want the Democrats getting all the credit for it, he came up with a reform package of his own.

Allen R. Coulter, 16, of Crestvue Pl. was in "fair" condition at City Hospital with injuries received in the two-car accident on Route 154 about 1½ miles west of Route 170 Sunday at noon.

The Patrol said Coulter turned his 1962 sedan into the path of a coach operated by Faye Peters, 31, of Rogers RD 1. Coulter suffered a laceration of the head and a contusion of the left arm.

A mother and two of her children were injured in an accident on Huston Rd. about a half mile north of Route 170 Sunday at 10:30 a.m.

The Patrol said a 1961 pickup truck operated by Henry P. Torrence, 39, of East Palestine RD 1 and a 1964 station wagon driven by Mrs. Mattern collided in the center of the road.

The accident is still under investigation.

A stone thrown from an overpass was termed cause of an accident on Route 517 about 1½ miles east of Route 164 Sunday at 5 a.m.

A 1968 sports coupe owned by Richard K. Parrish, 26, of 338 E. Washington St., Lisbon, received damage to the front and a broken windshield when a rock struck the windshield and Parrish lost control of the auto which struck a cement pillar. Parrish was not injured, officers said.

Another accident resulted when a driver lost control of her vehicle on a wet road and struck the center strip on Route 30.

Bonnie L. Rogers, 21, of Shippingport, Pa., was northbound on Route 30 just south of Route 7 Sunday when she lost control of her auto. After striking the center strip, the car went off the right side of the road and struck a guardrail.

Doris P. Kemple, 52, of 610 Fisher Ave. halted her 1966 sedan to make a left turn and it was struck in the rear by a northbound 1964 small foreign car driven by Janet L. Rinehart of 261 W. 7th St.

Miss Rinehart was cited by the Patrol. Neither driver was injured.

A Salineville area driver was arrested after a two-car accident on the Fife Coal Rd. about a mile west of Route 45 Sunday at 6:35 p.m.

Mildred R. Carmen of Salineville RD 3 passed an auto driven by Cecil Thrasher Jr., 32, of 1010 Hillcrest Rd., Wellsville, and as she attempted to pull back into the right lane, her 1963 sedan struck the Thrasher auto.

An accident involving three vehicles occurred on Route 7 about a mile and a half north of Route 154 Sunday at 7 p.m.

The patrol said Paul H. Ingram, 27, of Negley RD 1 was attempting to pass an unidentified auto and a car driven by Fred Boyles, 59, of Struthers when Boyles attempted to pass the unidentified car and drove into the path of the Ingram auto, striking it in the side.

Check Case Verdict Near

LISBON — A Common Pleas Court verdict is expected today in the trial of Robert L. Heiney, 23, of Ravine St., East Liverpool, charged with forging an $86.35 check in April.

The defendant, who has been handling his own case since the trial began Wednesday, took the stand this morning to give his testimony in narrative form.

Besides the check which police found in Heiney's wallet, the prosecution also entered as exhibits a bundle of printed and signed checks and a check-writing machine and a blank check book with checks to be drawn upon the First National Bank of East Liverpool and imprinted with the names of Mr. and Mrs. George D. Cummings.

All except the check in question were located by police after they found it and obtained a warrant to search Heiney's home.

Heiney told the jury he never saw any of the checks in written form. "I had viewed these checks in blank earlier when they were brought to my apartment by Ronald Agnew along with the checkwriter and the book of blank checks," he told the jurors.

He said Agnew told him they could make "good money" with the material. Heiney said, "I told him I wanted no part of any of this and for him to remove them from my home. He was living at my home at the time."

Heiney said Agnew told him he would remove the things. "I thought he was my friend instead of my adversary," he stated. He told the jurors he had the opportunity to slip the check in question into his wallet.

Agnew was a witness last week and denied "planting" the check.

Heiney reminded the jury that Walter Knight, state handwriting expert who testified last week, could not positively identify the endorsement on the check as the defendant's handwriting.

The defendant said the prosecution's statement that he refused to give a handwriting specimen is not true. He said he made the offer several weeks ago at the County Jail, but heard nothing more.

Chester Boy Injured When Struck By Auto

A 5 - year - old Chester boy struck by an auto on Indiana Ave., Chester, over the weekend was in "fair" condition today at City Hospital.

James Huff, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Huff of 540 Indiana Ave., suffered cuts of the cheek and multiple bruises and abrasions when struck by an auto operated by Beverly Curtis of 615 6th St., Chester.

Chester police said the youth apparently ran from behind a parked auto in the path of the woman's auto.

arrive at the scene, stationed himself at a rear door. The youths apparently heard the officer, because one broke a 41-by-72-inch plate glass window in the front of the building to escape and the others left the building by a garage door on the east side of the structure, officers said.

Patrolman Dwight Garvey, James Woods and W.F. Copestick arrived at the scene shortly after Blevins. One of the boys was apprehended almost immediately as he fled into the weeds along the Penn Central railroad tracks at the Virginia Ave. crossing, officers said. The others were apprehended a short time later.

Police said entry apparently was gained by working loose locks on garage doors on the east side of the building. The intruders then forced the lock to enter an office. Desk drawers were ransacked and three cases of soft drinks had been placed beside an unlocked door at the rear of the building.

It was the second time in little more than 48 hours an intruder was arrested in an East End burglary. An 18-year-old East End resident captured early Friday inside the Rogers Drive-In Restaurant on Pennsylvania Ave. is due for a preliminary hearing in Municipal Court Tuesday on a breaking and entering charge.

amend the Constitution—charges critics have voiced against Warren's direction of the court.

The 61-year-old judge indicated he will sever connections with non-judicial organizations. He listed six organizations to which he belongs, including the Mayo Foundation which has paid him $6,000 in fees as a trustee.

Foundations are a sensitive issue because of the resignation of Justice Abe Fortas after it was disclosed he had accepted a $20,000 fee from the family foundation of Louis E. Wolfson, a financier now serving a prison term.

Burger, a former Republican chairman of his native state of Minnesota, knows his way around politics. He was credited with helping swing Minnesota's deciding votes to Dwight D. Eisenhower when the latter defeated the late Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio for the GOP presidential nomination in 1952. He served as an assistant attorney general in the Eisenhower administration.

Nixon has indicated that he would be ready with a second court appointment, to fill the Fortas vacancy, shortly after Burger's confirmation.

credit. It does not fix maximum or minimum charges for credit.

The law applies to banks, savings and loan associations, department stores, credit card issuers, credit unions, automobile dealers, residential mortgage brokers and anyone extending or arranging credit for which a finance charge is payable.

Exempted from its provisions are business and commercial credit, except agricultural credit, and credit over $25,000, except real estate transactions.

The Federal Trade Commission, the primary enforcement agency, expects credit grantors to encounter difficulties adjusting to the new requirements.

The Federal Reserve Board sent about 800,000 copies of its "Regulation Z to affected creditors to explain the law.

Here are some questions raised and the answers provided in "Regulation Z":

Q: What is the finance charge?

A: The total of all costs the borrower must pay, directly or indirectly.

Q: What costs are included in he finance charge?

A: Interest, loan fee, any amount paid as a discount, service or carrying charge, credit investigation fee, cost of life or other insurance. The dollar and cents total of these charges, and the percentage they represent, must be stated in writing except that only the annual per cent rate must be included in the sale of dwellings.

Q: What is the annual percentage rate?

A: The relative cost of credit in percentage terms, with all costs included.

Q: What is open end credit?

A: Normally it covers most credit card charges and revolving accounts in retail stores where finance charges usually are based on unpaid balances each month.

Q: What information must be given an open end customer?

A: The period in which payment may be made without incurring a finance charge; the method used to determine the balance on which the charge is made; how the actual charge is calculated; description of any lien the lender may acquire on a customer's property, and the minimum payment that must be made on each billing.

Q: What other types of credit are involved?

A: Loans and sales credit for a specified length of time where the amount, the number of payments and the payment dates are agreed on by both parties. These loans usually are made for the purchase of big items such as automobiles or major appliances.

Q: What information must the lender provide for such credit?

A: The total amount of the credit charge, the annual percentage rate, the number, amount and due dates of payments, the charges made for late payments, the difference between the cash price and the deferred payment price of the goods financed.

State, City Seek Old Post Office; Conference Set

The U.S. General Services Administration office in Chicago today advised Mayor George E. Willshaw that both the city and the state governments have applied to take tile to the former post offce building at E. 5th St. and Broadway, both seeking it for use as the site of a pottery museum.

The GSA recommended that East Liverpool officials confer with Alfred Gienow, director of the Ohio Public Works Department at Columbus, to straighten out the apparent conflict and advise the federal agency of the decision by next Monday.

The mayor said he will telephone Gienow at Columbus and set up an appointment to discuss the building. The notification from the GSA came in a letter today from John Malone, chief of the real property division's property maintenance and disposal service.

Malone said when the city and state reach agreement, his agency will make a decision under the law that covers disposal of surplus real property for public purposes.

Gov. James A. Rhodes and the Ohio Historical Association announced last fall the former post office would be available to house an Ohio Pottery Museum. The governor said $100,000 would be provided out of state bond issue funds to help establish the museum. There was no decision at the time which governmental agency would take title to the building.

Much of the speculation that Thieu labeled "not true" dealt with the assumption in some quarters that he would never accept any sort of coalition, a possibility opened in Nixon's eight-point peace plan of May 14.

However, the language of the joint statement was broad enough to encompass almost any interpretation.

County Step Clears City Fund Request

County commissioners have endorsed East Liverpool's application for more than $800,000 in state aid toward four major municipal projects, Mayor George E. Willshaw was notified today.

The commissioners sent the mayor a letter explaining they went on record at a meeting last week approving the application for help in paving Maine Blvd. and Shadyside Ave., constructing a storm sewer on Pennsylvania Ave. between Dewey and Oakland Aves. and financing the city's share for the eastward extension of the Freeway.

The application was contained in a resolution enacted by Council May 5. Commissioners James Boyd, Charles Gause and R. Max Gard said a copy of their resolution will be forwarded to the Ohio Highway Department offices in New Philadelphia and Columbus, State Sen. Douglas Applegate of Steubenville and State Rep. Clarence L. Wetzel of near Lisbon.

The city seeks the funds from a statewide bond issue approved by voters at the November 1968 general election.

Small Boat Dock Set For Chester

William Mangano of 142 W. 7th St. has filed an application with the Pittsburgh district office of the Corps of Engineers to build a small boat docking facility on the Ohio River shore at Chester.

Mayor George E. Willshaw today received notification of the application from Col. R. C. Whitehead, acting district engineer. Whitehead said comments and written statements on the application will be received in his office in the Federal Building at Pittsburgh until July 8.

The application calls for a concrete wall about 186 feet long to be placed on the approximate line of the Chester shore, the letter said. Three floating docks would be built at right angles to the wall, extending a maximum distance of 56 feet into the river, it added. A series of "finger docks" would be attached to the three floating docks. The applicant said the docks would be removed from the river between Nov. 1 and April 15 each year.

Col. Whitehead said plans for the dock may be inspected in room 2014 at the Federal Building, 1000 Liberty Ave., Pittsburgh.

Town Wages War On Rats

SMOCK, Pa. (AP) — The village of Smock and some of its 300 families are waging war—on a pack of hungry rats.

No one is quite sure of the strength of the pack although a teen-age youth claims he killed 150 rats during a three-day period last week. But there's no doubt the foe is formidable.

"Some are as large as rabbits," says James Abbott, a constable and the town's only law officer.

Abbott said the rats started to move into the village after the state Health Department closed a garbage dump, closing off their food supply. The owners were ordered to spread poison around the dump, but they apparently didn't use enough, he said.

Several persons started shooting the rats Sunday.

"It sound like the Fourth of July around here now," Abbott said. "But we don't mind them shooting the rats as long as they are careful not to shoot themselves."

The rat invasion also has triggered an avalanche of home remedies.

"Everyone has a solution to the rat problem," said Abbott. "We got a call from one lady who suggested setting off alarm clocks in the yard at different times to scare them away. But I don't know if anyone tried that."

Mike Omatick, supervising sanitarian for the state health department, said the problem has subsided in the past few days. He said he expects it to end by the end of the week after the rats have been fed more poison.

So far a 5-year-old boy is the only victim of the pack. He was bitten on th ankle and is receiving treatment for rabies.

The Wendell Pikes, whose 15-year-old son killed the 150 rats, live closest to the dump.

"This is just like one huge nightmare," said Mrs. Pike. "I walk around the house with a baseball bat knowing they are around somewhere waiting to find something to eat."

Mrs. Pike said the rats set off traps as soon as they are set.

Her main concern, she said, is for children who play in the yard of the Smock Elementary School near the dump.

"You can watch the rats scatter as the children come out for recess," she said. "The children don't seem bothered by them, because they think it is fun throwing rocks at them."

Cancer Crusade Head Stresses Treatment Need

LISBON — An estimated 73,000 Americans will develop colon-rectum cancer this year, according to Dr. John Fraser of East Liverpool, Columbiana County Cancer Crusade chairman.

"This form of the disease is sometimes called 'the cancer nobody talks about' and there is a tendency to avoid diagnosis and treatment of it," the physician said. "Such ignorance costs lives.

Dr. Fraser said patients with colon-rectum cancer can be saved in almost 75 per cent of cases when the disease is found early and treated properly.

He emphasized the importance of a "procto" (short for proctosigmoidoscopic) examination as part of a person's annual health checkup, particularly for those over 40.

A "Procto" is the visual examination of the lower colon and rectum through a lighted tube. Most colon cancers occur within the last segment of the bowel which can be examined readily by means of a "procto," Dr. Fraser said.

"Remember, too, that any change in bowel habits that persists for two weeks should be reported to your doctor," he added. "This might, but does not have to be, a warning signal of cancer."

North Side Boy Cited For Damage To Autos

A 16-year-old North Side boy was cited over the weekend for alleged vandalism in which paint was smeared on two parked cars and a garage Thursday night or Friday morning, police said.

The vandalism was reported to police late Friday afternoon. The North St. resident was cited to juvenile authorities.

Carl Dickey of 747 Stevens Alley told officers white paint was smeared on the headlights of his auto while it was parked in Stevens Alley between midnight and 9 a. m. Friday. Don Cunninghani of 830 Avondale St. told officers the tallights of his car was smeared with paint while it was parked on Avondale St. between 9 p.m. Thursday and 6 a.m. Friday.

Robert Henthorne of 734 Sophia St. told officers obscene pictures and words were painted on the doors of his garage at the rear of his home some time Thursday night.

Brakes Fail, Car Hits Wall

An auto bumped a city-owned concrete retaining wall at Park Way and Pennsylvania Ave. early Sunday as a woman driver drifted her vehicle downgrade after the brakes failed, police reported.

The wall was hit at 12:45 by a 1957 sedan driven by Patricia D. Allison, 26, of 228 W. 9th St.

The woman said she was turning off Pennsylvania Ave. onto Park Way at the time. As she allowed the car to drift downgrade, it struck the wall, damaging the car's right rear, she said.

A mishap Saturday night at 10:39 on Broadway 85 feet south of St. Clair Ave. damaged a 1966 two-door sedan driven by Eddie D. Lowe, 16, of 1125 Parshall Rd., Wellsville, and a parked 1967 four-door sedan owned by John F. Disch of 111 E. 6th St., officers said.

Lowe told police he was parking his auto and mistakenly thought he had the vehicle in reverse gear. The auto leaped forward and hit the Disch car, he said. The mishap damaged the right rear quarter panel of the Disch car and caused "very minor" damage to the right front fender and hood of the Lowe car.

Officers also aided two ailing persons over the weekend.

Woman Injured In 2-Car Mishap

An East Liverpool area woman was in "fair" condition today at City Hospital with injuries suffered in a two-car accident in Chester Sunday.

Mrs. Betsy Hickman of Shadyside Ave. was a passenger in an auto driven by Jacqueline Crook of 418 Broadway, Wellsville.

Chester police said a car operated by Larry Kent Laiman of Youngstown, halted for a traffic signal at 4th St. and Carolina Ave., was struck in the rear by the Crook car.

Viet

for two or three days, then pull back, regroup and hit again later.

U.S. headquarters said eight of the attacks Sunday night were significant, meaning they caused casualties or damage

The heaviest attack was against South Vietnamese paratroopers along the Cambodian Border protecting Tay Ninh City, 55 miles northwest of Saigon.

North Vietnamese troops fired more than 200 rockets and mortars into theire night bivouac then followd with a ground assault. The four-hour battle lasted until dawn and a spokesman said 37 North Vietnamese were killed. South Vietnamese losses were three killed and a number of wounded.

Three of the enemy attacks by rockets and mortars, apparently aimed for military posts, fell into populated areas instead. South Vietnamese headquarters said eight civilians were killed and 41 wounded.

Troops

stands at 538,500 although before he left office President Lyndon B. Johnson gave the Pentagon authority to put as many as 549,500 in Vietnam. In recent months top military officers decided the additional forces were not necessary.

Nixon held out hope that further troop withdrawals, something he promised as a presidential candidate, will be possible this year.

"During the month of August and at regular intervals thereafter we shall review the situation . . . ," Nixon said. "I will announce plans for further replacements as decisions are made."

In recent days published speculation had centered on 50,000 troops being removed from the war zone by fall.

In choosing something less dramatic, the Nixon administration probably considered various factors such as:

—A big reduction in the American force might have been construed by North Vietnamese negotiators in Paris as a weakening of U.S. determination to continue supporting the war.

—The North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces still have the ability to kill 100-200 Americans each week, and the United States must not cut its combat effectiveness too sharply in one move.

—The training and equipping of South Vietnamese forces is moving along satisfactorily, but Pentagon officials expect it will be next fall or later before the South Vietnamese can replace American troops in substantial numbers.

Problems

by a large segment of House Republicans, including the leaders. They have endorsed direct, popular elections, eliminating the electoral votes, and the prospects for passage of such an amendment when the House takes it up in a few weeks are considered good.

Nixon wanted to avoid tax reform legislation this year, making it the subject of a study while he concentrated on getting the 10 per cent surtax continued. But largely as the result of pressure from Republicans, who saw tax reform as a potent political issue and didn't want the Democrats getting all the credit for it, he came up with a reform package of his own.

The accident is still under investigation.

A stone thrown from an overpass was termed cause of an accident on Route 517 about 1½ miles east of Route 164 Sunday at 5 a.m.

A 1968 sports coupe owned by Richard K. Parrish, 26, of 338 E. Washington St., Lisbon, received damage to the front and a broken windshield when a rock struck the windshield and Parrish lost control of the auto which struck a cement pillar.

Bonnie L. Rogers, 21, of Shippingport, Pa., was northbound on Route 30 just south of Route 7 Sunday when she lost control of her auto. After striking the center strip, the car went off the right side of the road and struck a guardrail.

Check Case Verdict Near

LISBON — A Common Pleas Court verdict is expected today in the trial of Robert L. Heiney, 23, of Ravine St., East Liverpool, charged with forging an $86.35 check in April.

The defendant, who has been handling his own case since the trial began Wednesday, took the stand this morning to give his testimony in narrative form.

Besides the check which police found in Heiney's wallet, the prosecution also entered as exhibits a bundle of printed and signed checks and a check-writing machine and a blank check book with checks to be drawn upon the First National Bank of East Liverpool and imprinted with the names of Mr. and Mrs. George D. Cummings.

All except the check in question were located by police after they found it and obtained a warrant to search Heiney's home.

Heiney told the jury he never saw any of the checks in written form. "I had viewed these checks in blank earlier when they were brought to my apartment by Ronald Agnew along with the checkwriter and the book of blank checks," he told the jurors.

He said Agnew told him they could make "good money" with the material. Heiney said, "I told him I wanted no part of any of this and for him to remove them from my home. He was living at my home at the time."

Heiney said Agnew told him he would remove the things. "I thought he was my friend instead of my adversary," he stated. He told the jurors he had the opportunity to slip the check in question into his wallet.

Agnew was a witness last week and denied "planting" the check.

Heiney reminded the jury that Walter Knight, state handwriting expert who testified last week, could not positively identify the endorsement on the check as the defendant's handwriting.

The defendant said the prosecution's statement that he refused to give a handwriting specimen is not true. He said he made the offer several weeks ago at the County Jail, but heard nothing more.

Chester Boy Injured When Struck By Auto

A 5 - year - old Chester boy struck by an auto on Indiana Ave., Chester, over the weekend was in "fair" condition today at City Hospital.

James Huff, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Huff of 540 Indiana Ave., suffered cuts of the cheek and multiple bruises and abrasions when struck by an auto operated by Beverly Curtis of 615 6th St., Chester.

Chester police said the youth apparently ran from behind a parked auto in the path of the woman's auto.

arrive at the scene, stationed himself at a rear door. The youths apparently heard the officer, because one broke a 41-by-72-inch plate glass window in the front of the building to escape and the others left the building by a garage door on the east side of the structure, officers said.

Patrolman Dwight Garvey, James Woods and W.F. Copestick arrived at the scene shortly after Blevins. One of the boys was apprehended almost immediately as he fled into the weeds along the Penn Central railroad tracks at the Virginia Ave. crossing, officers said. The others were apprehended a short time later.

Police said entry apparently was gained by working loose locks on garage doors on the east side of the building. The intruders then forced the lock to enter an office. Desk drawers were ransacked and three cases of soft drinks had been placed beside an unlocked door at the rear of the building.

It was the second time in little more than 48 hours an intruder was arrested in an East End burglary. An 18-year-old East End resident captured early Friday inside the Rogers Drive-In Restaurant on Pennsylvania Ave. is due for a preliminary hearing in Municipal Court Tuesday on a breaking and entering charge.

amend the Constitution—charges critics have voiced against Warren's direction of the court.

The 61-year-old judge indicated he will sever connections with non-judicial organizations. He listed six organizations to which he belongs, including the Mayo Foundation which has paid him $6,000 in fees as a trustee.

Foundations are a sensitive issue because of the resignation of Justice Abe Fortas after it was disclosed he had accepted a $20,000 fee from the family foundation of Louis E. Wolfson, a financier now serving a prison term.

Burger, a former Republican chairman of his native state of Minnesota, knows his way around politics. He was credited with helping swing Minnesota's deciding votes to Dwight D. Eisenhower when the latter defeated the late Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio for the GOP presidential nomination in 1952. He served as an assistant attorney general in the Eisenhower administration.

Nixon has indicated that he would be ready with a second court appointment, to fill the Fortas vacancy, shortly after Burger's confirmation.

Lending

credit. It does not fix maximum or minimum charges for credit.

The law applies to banks, savings and loan associations, department stores, credit card issuers, credit unions, automobile dealers, residential mortgage brokers and anyone extending or arranging credit for which a finance charge is payable.

Exempted from its provisions are business and commercial credit, except agricultural credit, and credit over $25,000, except real estate transactions.

The Federal Trade Commission, the primary enforcement agency, expects credit grantors to encounter difficulties adjusting to the new requirements.

The Federal Reserve Board sent about 800,000 copies of its "Regulation Z to affected creditors to explain the law.

Here are some questions raised and the answers provided in "Regulation Z":

Q: What is the finance charge?

A: The total of all costs the borrower must pay, directly or indirectly.

Q: What costs are included in he finance charge?

A: Interest, loan fee, any amount paid as a discount, service or carrying charge, credit investigation fee, cost of life or other insurance. The dollar and cents total of these charges, and the percentage they represent, must be stated in writing except that only the annual per cent rate must be included in the sale of dwellings.

Q: What is the annual percentage rate?

A: The relative cost of credit in percentage terms, with all costs included.

Q: What is open end credit?

A: Normally it covers most credit card charges and revolving accounts in retail stores where finance charges usually are based on unpaid balances each month.

Q: What information must be given an open end customer?

A: The period in which payment may be made without incurring a finance charge; the method used to determine the balance on which the charge is made; how the actual charge is calculated; description of any lien the lender may acquire on a customer's property, and the minimum payment that must be made on each billing.

Q: What other types of credit are involved?

A: Loans and sales credit for a specified length of time where the amount, the number of payments and the payment dates are agreed on by both parties. These loans usually are made for the purchase of big items such as automobiles or major appliances.

Q: What information must the lender provide for such credit?

A: The total amount of the credit charge, the annual percentage rate, the number, amount and due dates of payments, the charges made for late payments, the difference between the cash price and the deferred payment price of the goods financed.

State, City Seek Old Post Office; Conference Set

The U.S. General Services Administration office in Chicago today advised Mayor George E. Willshaw that both the city and the state governments have applied to take tile to the former post offce building at E. 5th St. and Broadway, both seeking it for use as the site of a pottery museum.

The GSA recommended that East Liverpool officials confer with Alfred Gienow, director of the Ohio Public Works Department at Columbus, to straighten out the apparent conflict and advise the federal agency of the decision by next Monday.

The mayor said he will telephone Gienow at Columbus and set up an appointment to discuss the building. The notification from the GSA came in a letter today from John Malone, chief of the real property division's property maintenance and disposal service.

Malone said when the city and state reach agreement, his agency will make a decision under the law that covers disposal of surplus real property for public purposes.

Gov. James A. Rhodes and the Ohio Historical Association announced last fall the former post office would be available to house an Ohio Pottery Museum. The governor said $100,000 would be provided out of state bond issue funds to help establish the museum. There was no decision at the time which governmental agency would take title to the building.

gard to the will of the people of South Vietnam."

Much of the speculation that Thieu labeled "not true" dealt with the assumption in some quarters that he would never accept any sort of coalition, a possibility opened in Nixon's eight-point peace plan of May 14.

However, the language of the joint statement was broad enough to encompass almost any interpretation.

County Step Clears City Fund Request

County commissioners have endorsed East Liverpool's application for more than $800,000 in state aid toward four major municipal projects, Mayor George E. Willshaw was notified today.

The commissioners sent the mayor a letter explaining they went on record at a meeting last week approving the application for help in paving Maine Blvd. and Shadyside Ave., constructing a storm sewer on Pennsylvania Ave. between Dewey and Oakland Aves. and financing the city's share for the eastward extension of the Freeway.

The application was contained in a resolution enacted by Council May 5. Commissioners James Boyd, Charles Gause and R. Max Gard said a copy of their resolution will be forwarded to the Ohio Highway Department offices in New Philadelphia and Columbus, State Sen. Douglas Applegate of Steubenville and State Rep. Clarence L. Wetzel of near Lisbon.

The city seeks the funds from a statewide bond issue approved by voters at the November 1968 general election.

Trial Planned For Motorist

Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff today set a hearing Thursday at 9 a.m. for Alfred Higgins, 35, of 770 Dresden Ave., charged with driving while his operator's permit was under revocation.

Higgins was cited Sunday at 11:41 a.m. on Dresden Ave. by Patrolman Karl W. Samples. Higgins was granted the continuance when he appeared before the judge this morning and asked time to obtain counsel. His $500 appearance bond was continued.

The officer reported he saw Higgins pull his auto out of Rural Ln. onto Dresden Ave. He said he asked Higgins for his operator's permit, but Higgins said he had none because it was under revocation.

Meanwhile, Daniel Shroades, 19, of John St., Glenmoor, was fined $15 and costs on a charge of driving 55 miles an hour in a 35-mile zone on St. Clair Ave. He was cited by Patrolman James Woods in a radar check Sunday at 8:35 p.m. Ada E. Potts, 18, of Hammondsville was fined $15 and costs on a charge of driving 60 miles an hour in a 50-mile zone on the Freeway. She was cited Saturday at 12:42 a.m. by Patrolman H. Clyde Dillon.

George M. Vadjinia, 23, of 1612 Maple Ave., Wellsville, a Marine on leave, was fined $10 and costs on a charge of speeding 66 miles an hour in a 50-mile zone on the Freeway. He was cited by Woods Sunday at 7:30 p.m.

Stanley F. Jablonski, 45, of Youngstown was granted a continuance until June 16 on a charge of speeding 65 miles an hour in a 50-mile zone on the Freeway. He was cited by Woods Sunday night.

Gerald Thomas, 21, of 1711 Globe St. was fined $15 and costs on a charge of failure to have his auto under control. He was cited by Patrolman Joseph Bates May 30 at 2:21 a.m. after his car crashed into a utility pole at Pennsylvania Ave. and Boyce St.

Small Boat Dock Set For Chester

William Mangano of 142 W. 7th St. has filed an application with the Pittsburgh district office of the Corps of Engineers to build a small boat docking facility on the Ohio River shore at Chester.

Mayor George E. Willshaw today received notification of the application from Col. R. C. Whitehead, acting district engineer. Whitehead said comments and written statements on the application will be received in his office in the Federal Building at Pittsburgh until July 8.

The application calls for a concrete wall about 186 feet long to be placed on the approximate line of the Chester shore, the letter said. Three floating docks would be built at right angles to the wall, extending a maximum distance of 56 feet into the river, it added. A series of "finger docks" would be attached to the three floating docks. The applicant said the docks would be removed from the river between Nov. 1 and April 15 each year.

Col. Whitehead said plans for the dock may be inspected in room 2014 at the Federal Building, 1000 Liberty Ave., Pittsburgh.

Assuming the kind of accuracy that U.S. experts credit the Russians being able to achieve, that could mean the virtual total destruction of a significant element of the U.S. strikeback nuclear force.

Cancer Crusade Head Stresses Treatment Need

LISBON — An estimated 73,000 Americans will develop colon-rectum cancer this year, according to Dr. John Fraser of East Liverpool, Columbiana County Cancer Crusade chairman.

"This form of the disease is sometimes called 'the cancer nobody talks about' and there is a tendency to avoid diagnosis and treatment of it," the physician said. "Such ignorance costs lives.

Dr. Fraser said patients with colon-rectum cancer can be saved in almost 75 per cent of cases when the disease is found early and treated properly.

He emphasized the importance of a "procto" (short for proctosigmoidoscopic) examination as part of a person's annual health checkup, particularly for those over 40.

A "Procto" is the visual examination of the lower colon and rectum through a lighted tube. Most colon cancers occur within the last segment of the bowel which can be examined readily by means of a "procto," Dr. Fraser said.

"Remember, too, that any change in bowel habits that persists for two weeks should be reported to your doctor," he added. "This might, but does not have to be, a warning signal of cancer."

Brakes Fail, Car Hits Wall

An auto bumped a city-owned concrete retaining wall at Park Way and Pennsylvania Ave. early Sunday as a woman driver drifted her vehicle downgrade after the brakes failed, police reported.

The wall was hit at 12:45 by a 1957 sedan driven by Patricia D. Allison, 26, of 228 W. 9th St.

The woman said she was turning off Pennsylvania Ave. onto Park Way at the time. As she allowed the car to drift downgrade, it struck the wall, damaging the car's right rear, she said.

A mishap Saturday night at 10:39 on Broadway 85 feet south of St. Clair Ave. damaged a 1966 two-door sedan driven by Eddie D. Lowe, 16, of 1125 Parshall Rd., Wellsville, and a parked 1967 four-door sedan owned by John F. Disch of 111 E. 6th St., officers said.

Lowe told police he was parking his auto and mistakenly thought he had the vehicle in reverse gear. The auto leaped forward and hit the Disch car, he said. The mishap damaged the right rear quarter panel of the Disch car and caused "very minor" damage to the right front fender and hood of the Lowe car.

On The TV Beat

By Cecil Smith

For Her, Television's A Joy

Stage 24 at MGM in Hollywood, has been outfitted for the three-camera technique, devised originally for "I Love Lucy" and the filming method that launched Hollywood's vast television industry.

Cecil Smith

It's a technique in which a film is made before an audience in sequence like a play with three cameras simultaneously catching various angles of the action.

In the glass booth beyond the audience are producer Jess Oppenheimer and executive producer Al Simon, both key figures in the launching of Lucy. Onstage in hiphugging brown jeans is Debbie Reynolds. This is the television launching of Debbie.

SHE PLAYS a long and complex scene as a giddy housewife attempting to prevent her sportswriter husband from seeing a certain television program. It delights the audience, particularly a wild leap she makes into her husband's arms.

But somewhere in the process, her zipper slipped. Debbie's appalled. She demands of the audience if they could tell her zipper was open. She asks Oppenheimer to replay a tape of the scene to check the open zipper. Debbie watches it closely shrugs and says: "I look decent to me." The crisis passes.

Filming the half-hour episode is a long invloved process, taking nearly four hours to complete. With Debbie in the cast are such top Broadway performers as Tom Bosley and Patricia Smith.

HER LEADING MAN is lean, rugged Don Chastain. The part is modeled, vaguely, on sports columnist Jim Murray — and Murray should be delighted to be depicted as such a tall, handsome broth of a lad.

Most of the performers and technicians are dragging after the long stop-and-go session. Not Debbie. She seems as pert and fresh and lively at the end of the long evening as at the beginning.

She continually plays to and with the audience, offering asides and little comments on the action and the actors. At one point she tells the audience, "I stopped making movies because I don't like taking off my clothes; these sound stages are so drafty."

LATER, sitting cross-legged with a glass of white wine, she said:

"What I told them was literally true. I don't want to do the movies they're doing these days. Maybe it's realism, but in my opinion it's utter filth. I even have my own production company and I looked for properties to buy. I won't waste my money on such garbage.

"I like to do things that are fun to do, bright and entertaining. I don't have to perform. I have a very complete life — five children, three houses to run, a Girl Scout troup and a successful and loving husband (shoe magnate Harry Lark). Why should I break my back doing things I don't like to do?

"But still, I've invested 20 years in this business. When you've put that much work in on something and you're still young and healthy, you feel you should function. NBC came to me with the answer — television.

"I TALKED to Lucille Ball, because she's the greatest, and she said to do the show with an audience, it's the only way to do comedy. I love audiences. You can feel from an audience what you're doing and how right it is.

"I'd never worked with three cameras, but Jess and Al practically invented the technique. I must say everything about this show has been first cabin. Bosley and Pat Smith and Don — top pros. The care Jess takes with everything, the crew, the sets. Quality.

"I'd always heard television was such a grind. But compared to movies, it's a joy. We rehearse Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday — and Thursday night we do the show. I'm home early every night with my family — and we have the whole weekend.

"On 'The Unsinkable Molly Brown' at this studio, I worked for seven months in which I was up every morning at 5 for makeup and got to bed bushed at 10. It was the best thing I ever did, but it was a grind — I never saw my family.

"This is fun to do. I think it's funny, it feels funny, the studio audience laughs. And I think a thing that is fun to do projects that fun to the audience at home. We'll see."

Youth, 18, Drowns In Canoeing Mishap

URBANA, Ohio (AP)—Robert Schaffer, 18, of Christiansburg in Champaign County, drowned Saturday in Kiser Lake about 14 miles northwest of here.

Police said he and his brother, Roger, 15, were canoeing about 100 yards from shore when the elder youth fell from the canoe and disappeared under the water. Volunteer firemen recovered the body about an hour later.

Senate Sets Vote On Bill On Obscenity

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Senate votes today on a bill to establish an Ohio Commission on Obscenity and Pornography.

The 15 - member commission would conduct a probe into the problem over the next two years. It would be headed by the attorney general, who would appoint 10 of the members.

The other members would be selected from the House and Senate. The final report of the commission would be made to the next session of the legislature.

It is one of four bills to face the Senate for a floor vote. Six measures are due for action in the House. The session begins at 4 p.m.

Two bills permitting Ohioans to donate their body or parts of it for transplant operations are among the measures.

Similar bills have been adopted by other states. One bill would put Ohio under the uniform anatomical gift act.

Also up in the House is a bill to provide for state regulation of private investigators. The bill has been endorsed by police throughout the state.

Also on the Senate agenda for a vote is an emergency measure changing the fees for slaughtering and meat processing establishments.

Under the bill, the fee would be $100 without reference to the number of animals slaughtered or their poundage. Fees now range from $20 to $1,000.

The bill is aimed at meeting requirements of the federal Wholesale Meat Act of 1967. The federal government, in turn, will share 50 per cent of the costs of the program.

Raging Blaze Claims 12 In Parkersburg

By ED NICHOLLS
Associated Press Writer

PARKERSBURG, W. Va. — (AP) — A teen-age boy and girl watched horrified and helpless as their parents and 10 brothers and sisters perished in a fire which engulfed their $48-a-month home.

Their grandfather, who leaped through a bathroom window, was the only one in the house to escape the blaze.

The eight-room, frame residence was leveled in 45 minutes. Roger Bailey, 13, and his sister Susan, 15, whose father Charles was a county maintenance worker, were staying in a smaller structure behind the house when the fire struck about 1:30 am. Sunday. Sitting on a porch banister of an uncle's home later, the dazed boy could manage only a mumbed "yes" or "no" when asked about the fire.

Roger, wearing jeans, cowboy boots and open-necked shirt, smoked a cigarette as he was questioned.

His sister stayed inside her uncle's house, too upset to meet newsmen.

Roger said they had slept in the small building to make room for their grandfather, Obie Bailey, 63, released from a local hospital last week.

Most of the bodies were found in the three bedrooms, and one was found in the dining room.

The grandfather, who was treated in a hospital for shock, said he and Mrs. Bailey, 36, had noticed nothing unusual when they retired at 11 p.m. Saturday. He said they were the last to go to bed.

Firemen said they didn't know how the fire started.

The children killed in the blaze were Nancy, 17; Patricia, 11; Claudia, 8; Marv, 7; Tim, 6; Debbie, 5; Steve, 3; Dale, 2; Ted, 1 and Ricky, 6 months.

Kindergarten Service Held

Some 125 attended graduation exercises of the week-day kindergarten Friday night at the social hall of the First United Methodist Church, the sponsoring group.

The graduates, attired in white caps and gowns, included Tammi Springer, Kevin Burks and Richard Pethtel, who also received attendance awards, Michael Hague, Anna Bartolovich, John Bryan, Ruth Hughey, David McElhaney, Darla Wolfe, Kimberly Conkle, William Cowles, Tambra Hoback, Christopher Crawford, James Potts, Kathleen Bentz, Rickey Heiney, Cynthia Bosh, Lavonne Marlow and Patty Brereton. The honor award went to Kimberly Konkle.

The children participated in songs, a dance, rhythm band and flag salute.

Each child recited a poem which represented the letters of the word "graduation" or which introduced various parts of the program.

Ruth Hughey, on behalf of the children, presented a gift to Mrs. William Kerr Jr., teacher. Charles Thomas Jr., director of education of the church, presented a letter of appreciation from the Commission on Education to Mrs. Kerr for her four years' service to the kindergarten class. Mrs. Madelin Thomas, who assisted with the music, received a gift from Mrs. Kerr.

Recognition was given parents who assisted, including Mrs. Elva Hymes and Mrs. Connie Brokaw.

Following the presentation of diplomas, refreshments were served the graduates and guests.

The decorations consisted of white picket fence and flowers on the front of the stage and silhouettes of boy and girl graduates and paper lanterns. The buffet table was centered with an arrangement of fresh flowers and graduation cakes.

On Thursday, Mrs. Kerr, the children and their parents, traveled by charter bus to Erie, Pa., to visit Fairyland.

On The TV Beat

By Cecil Smith

For Her, Television's A Joy

Stage 24 at MGM in Hollywood, has been outfitted for the three-camera technique, devised originally for "I Love Lucy" and the filming method that launched Hollywood's vast television industry.

Cecil Smith

It's a technique in which a film is made before an audience in sequence like a play with three cameras simultaneously catching various angles of the action.

In the glass booth beyond the audience are producer Jess Oppenheimer and executive producer Al Simon, both key figures in the launching of Lucy. Onstage in hiphugging brown jeans is Debbie Reynolds. This is the television launching of Debbie.

SHE PLAYS a long and complex scene as a giddy housewife attempting to prevent her sportswriter husband from seeing a certain television program. It delights the audience, particularly a wild leap she makes into her husband's arms.

But somewhere in the process, her zipper slipped. Debbie's appalled. She demands of the audience if they could tell her zipper was open. She asks Oppenheimer to replay a tape of the scene to check the open zipper. Debbie watches it closely shrugs and says: "I look decent to me." The crisis passes.

Filming the half-hour episode is a long invloved process, taking nearly four hours to complete. With Debbie in the cast are such top Broadway performers as Tom Bosley and Patricia Smith.

HER LEADING MAN is lean, rugged Don Chastain. The part is modeled, vaguely, on sports columnist Jim Murray — and Murray should be delighted to be depicted as such a tall, handsome broth of a lad.

Most of the performers and technicians are dragging after the long stop-and-go session. Not Debbie. She seems as pert and fresh and lively at the end of the long evening as at the beginning.

She continually plays to and with the audience, offering asides and little comments on the action and the actors. At one point she tells the audience, "I stopped making movies because I don't like taking off my clothes; these sound stages are so drafty."

LATER, sitting cross-legged with a glass of white wine, she said:

"What I told them was literally true. I don't want to do the movies they're doing these days. Maybe it's realism, but in my opinion it's utter filth. I even have my own production company and I looked for properties to buy. I won't waste my money on such garbage.

"I like to do things that are fun to do, bright and entertaining. I don't have to perform. I have a very complete life — five children, three houses to run, a Girl Scout troup and a successful and loving husband (shoe magnate Harry Lark). Why should I break my back doing things I don't like to do?

"But still, I've invested 20 years in this business. When you've put that much work in on something and you're still young and healthy, you feel you should function. NBC came to me with the answer — television.

"I TALKED to Lucille Ball, because she's the greatest, and she said to do the show with an audience, it's the only way to do comedy. I love audiences. You can feel from an audience what you're doing and how right it is.

"I'd never worked with three cameras, but Jess and Al practically invented the technique. I must say everything about this show has been first cabin. Bosley and Pat Smith and Don — top pros. The care Jess takes with everything, the crew, the sets. Quality.

"I'd always heard television was such a grind. But compared to movies, it's a joy. We rehearse Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday — and Thursday night we do the show. I'm home early every night with my family — and we have the whole weekend.

"On 'The Unsinkable Molly Brown' at this studio, I worked for seven months in which I was up every morning at 5 for makeup and got to bed bushed at 10. It was the best thing I ever did, but it was a grind — I never saw my family.

"This is fun to do. I think it's funny, it feels funny, the studio audience laughs. And I think a thing that is fun to do projects that fun to the audience at home. We'll see."

Youth, 18, Drowns In Canoeing Mishap

URBANA, Ohio (AP)—Robert Schaffer, 18, of Christiansburg in Champaign County, drowned Saturday in Kiser Lake about 14 miles northwest of here.

Police said he and his brother, Roger, 15, were canoeing about 100 yards from shore when the elder youth fell from the canoe and disappeared under the water. Volunteer firemen recovered the body about an hour later.

Senate Sets Vote On Bill On Obscenity

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Senate votes today on a bill to establish an Ohio Commission on Obscenity and Pornography.

The 15 - member commission would conduct a probe into the problem over the next two years. It would be headed by the attorney general, who would appoint 10 of the members.

The other members would be selected from the House and Senate. The final report of the commission would be made to the next session of the legislature.

It is one of four bills to face the Senate for a floor vote. Six measures are due for action in the House. The session begins at 4 p.m.

Two bills permitting Ohioans to donate their body or parts of it for transplant operations are among the measures.

Similar bills have been adopted by other states. One bill would put Ohio under the uniform anatomical gift act.

Also up in the House is a bill to provide for state regulation of private investigators. The bill has been endorsed by police throughout the state.

Also on the Senate agenda for a vote is an emergency measure changing the fees for slaughtering and meat processing establishments.

Under the bill, the fee would be $100 without reference to the number of animals slaughtered or their poundage. Fees now range from $20 to $1,000.

The bill is aimed at meeting requirements of the federal Wholesale Meat Act of 1967. The federal government, in turn, will share 50 per cent of the costs of the program.

Raging Blaze Claims 12 In Parkersburg

By ED NICHOLLS
Associated Press Writer

PARKERSBURG, W. Va. — (AP) — A teen-age boy and girl watched horrified and helpless as their parents and 10 brothers and sisters perished in a fire which engulfed their $48-a-month home.

Their grandfather, who leaped through a bathroom window, was the only one in the house to escape the blaze.

The eight-room, frame residence was leveled in 45 minutes. Roger Bailey, 13, and his sister Susan, 15, whose father Charles was a county maintenance worker, were staying in a smaller structure behind the house when the fire struck about 1:30 am. Sunday. Sitting on a porch banister of an uncle's home later, the dazed boy could manage only a mumbed "yes" or "no" when asked about the fire.

Roger, wearing jeans, cowboy boots and open-necked shirt, smoked a cigarette as he was questioned.

His sister stayed inside her uncle's house, too upset to meet newsmen.

Roger said they had slept in the small building to make room for their grandfather, Obie Bailey, 63, released from a local hospital last week.

Most of the bodies were found in the three bedrooms, and one was found in the dining room.

The grandfather, who was treated in a hospital for shock, said he and Mrs. Bailey, 36, had noticed nothing unusual when they retired at 11 p.m. Saturday. He said they were the last to go to bed.

Firemen said they didn't know how the fire started.

The children killed in the blaze were Nancy, 17; Patricia, 11; Claudia, 8; Marv, 7; Tim, 6; Debbie, 5; Steve, 3; Dale, 2; Ted, 1 and Ricky, 6 months.

Midland Legion Rallies, Ties Highland 5-5 In 8

By JOHN MUELLER

The sun was hiding behind the clouds Saturday evening but Lady Luck flashed a smile that was enough to light up the Midland diamond and the hopes of the Midland Legion team as it was handed three runs without the benefit of a hit and battled the Highland Legion to a 4-4 tie in eight innings.

The game was called because of darkness. The tie game leaves the Midland team with a 3-1 record and a share of the western division Beaver County Legion League lead.

Highland scored two runs in its half of the final frame to take a 4-1 lead but its pitchers ran into control trouble and Midland tied it up. Greg Musgrave, Highland's starting hurler, had walked just five batters in six innings and gave up three hits. He opened the seventh frame with a base on balls to pinch-hitter Dave Matteo. Ross Ranelli sent a routine fly to center for the initial out. Musgrave at this point could not find the plate as he walked Larry Anderson on four straight pitches. He threw two balls to the next battr, Bob Prodonovich, before firing a strike, but came back with two balls and his third walk of the frame. Denny Caldwell relieved Musgrave and walked Mark Braund to force Matteo in with the first run. Caldwell then hit Paul Francis and Anderson came over with the second run. George Mraovic hit a bounder to the pitcher and Prodonovich was forced at the plate for the second out. Ron Misorski drew a walk and Joe D'Itri, running for Braund, came home with the tying run. Scotty Newtz grounded out to end the weird inning.

Midland loaded the bases in the extra frame but failed to score and the game was called because of darkness. Matteo led off with a single and stole second. Ranelli fouled out to the catcher. Anderson walked as Caldwell was having serious control problems. He struck out Prodonovich, but followed with a walk to D'Itri to load the bases. Working to Francis he cut loose with a wild pitch, but Matteo, working on fake breaks to the plate, had turned back to third and when he tried to score on the wild pitch he was out at the plate as the catcher, Brian McCarl, fired to Caldwell covering the plate.

Midland picked up a run in the first inning to take a 1-0 lead. After two were out, Prodonovich tripled to deep right center and Braund walked on four straight pitches. Braund and Prodonovich worked the double steal to register the run.

Highland tied it up in the second as it cracked out four singles off Midland's starting pitcher, Joe Pillar.

Highland took a one-run lead in the fourth as Jerry Matiyak opened with a single and moved to second as Ken Wagoner grounded out. Jim Betke doubled to deep center to score the runner but was out trying to stretch the hit into a triple.

Prodonovich relieved Pillar at the start of the seventh frame and Highland promptly bombed him for four hits and two runs to take a 4-1 lead. Betke opened with a single. Stan Weister was called out for crossing the plate on an attempted sacrifice but Bob Coughanour doubled to left center, Betke holding at third. McCarl singled and both runners scored. Caldwell popped out to Mraovic but Terry Thellman walked. Musgrave singled to load the bases but Matiyak lined a soft liner to Anderson to end the inning and set the stage for the weird doings that can happen in the game of baseball.

Pillar started for Midland, gave up a pair of runs on eight hits, struck out three, walked three and hit one batter. Prodonovich gave up two runs, four hits and walked one.

Musgrave allowed three runs and three hits in six and one third innings, struck out four and walked eight. Caldwell was charged with one run and one hit in one and two thirds innings, walked four and hit one batter.

There will be a glittering array of high school basketball talent on hand for the sixth annual Ohio North-South Cage Classic at Marion June 21.

The North squad is led by Nick Weatherspoon, Luke Witte, Abe Steward and Dave Merchant, while the South counters with Ed Ratleff, Nick Connor, Allan Hornyak and Willie Townsend.

Weatherspoon is the Canton McKinley ace who was named "Player of the Year" by the Associated Press. The 6-7 "Spoon," who has an excellent outside shot, averaged 25.2 points a game in leading the Bulldogs to the state finals. He was named MVP in the Dapper Dan Roundball Classic and will attend Illinois U.

Witte, 6-11, was a one-man gang for Malington, scoring 751 points for the Dukes. He hit 66 per cent of his field goal attempts. Witte will attend Ohio State.

STEWARD, 6-5, led Toledo Libbey to the state semi-finals and starred as Libbey almost upset state champ Columbus East. An extremely smooth player, Steward averaged 22 points a game this year.

Merchant, 6-1, of Marion Harding, was another all-stater. He averaged 26 points a game this season and will attend Ohio State.

Others on the North team are 6-11 Jim Andrews of Lima Bath who averaged 33.5 and will attend Kentucky; Dave Gores of Coshocton 6-2, who will attend Muskingum; Class A AP Player of the Year Dan Thallman of Bloomville, 6-6, who will attend Ashland; George Trotogott of Champion, Ron Anderegg of Lakewood and Randy Caipen of Tallmadge.

The South has the benefit of the Columbus East deadly duo of Ratleff and Connor, who took the Tigers to two straight state titles. Both are 6-6, ferocious rebounders and deadly shooters.

HORNYAK of Bellaire St. John's, averaged over 40 points a game the past two seasons, hitting 55 per cent of his shots, mostly from long range. He also will attend Ohio State.

Townsend, 6-4, combined with his brother Payton, a 1968 graduate, to lead Hamilton Garfield to the state finals in 1968.

Others on the South squad are Bob McEvoy of Zanesville, Dave Blevins of Portsmouth Clay, Steve Hess of Greenon, Derrek Dickey of Cincinnati Purcell, Skip Downard of Wellston and Gary Lawrence of Granville.

Bob Rupert of Canton McKinley and Leigh Klingensmith of Spingfield Local will coach the North and Bob Hart of Columbus East and Arch Justus of Portsmouth Clay will coach the South.

THE NORTH has won the last three games and leads 3-2 in the series.

Reserved seats are sold out, but general admission tickets at $1.50 may be obtained by writing ticket manager Dick Brown, % North-South Cage Classic in Marion, 43302.

JOE MASSEY of East Liverpool, a 1969 Thiel graduate, has been named to "Outstanding College Athletes of America," a publication that features the top 5,000 all-round athletes in college.

JOEL PETKOVICH, a 1968 graduate of Beaver Local, is transferring from Marysville (Tenn.) College to Youngstown State U. Petkovich, who played baseball and basketball at Beaver Local, hopes to play baseball at YSU.

Expos End Loss Streak, Braves Sweep Pirates

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Gene Mauch finally has kicked his habit, with a helping hand from the Montreal Expos' new third base coach. . . a fellow named Gene Mauch.

Mauch, long-suffering manager of the National League expansion club, stationed himself on the coaching line for the first time this season Sunday . . . and the Expos promptly broke their near-record losing streak at 20 games by squeezing past Los Angeles 4-3.

"I decided I'd try it while I was driving home last night," the Expos' skipper said of his decision to quit the dugout for the third base coach's box. "I was the best third base coach I ever saw when I was in the minors.

"If I thought it would help, I'd coach both first and third base at the same time."

Rookie right-hander Jerry Robertson, backed by Rusty Staub's two-run homer and Mack Jones' bases-empty blast, posted his first major league victory as the Expos ended their tailspin three losses short of the all-time mark . . . set by Mauch's 1961 Philadelphia Phillies.

The New York Mets ran their unbeaten string to 10 games with a 3-2 comeback victory over San Diego; San Francisco stritched Philadelphia's losing skein to eight games with a 9-8 12-inning nod; Houston nipped St. Louis 2-1 in 11 innings and Atlanta swept a doubleheader from Pittsburgh 11-10 and 4-3.

Rain washed out the Cincinnati-Chicago Cubs game.

Robertson, starting for only the fourth time, took a two-hitter and a 4-1 lead into the ninth at Los Angeles, but gave up two more hits and needed help from veteran Elroy Face as the Dodgers rallied for a pair of runs.

"The toughest part of the whole streak was that ninth inning," said Mauch.

Wayne Garrett's run-scoring single capped a two-run eighth inning rally that swept the Mets past San Diego, giving right-hander Tom Seaver his ninth victory against three losses.

Yankees Honor Mantle, Sweep Doubleheader

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Good pitching, not Mickey Mantle Day, inspired the New York Yankees to play like the Yankees of old. And it also served as an inspiration for the new Seatile Pilots to play like the Pilots of old.

With many former great Yankees and the largest crowd in the majors this season—60,096—on hand to do honor to Mantle, the Yankees swept a doubleheader from the Chicago White Sox 3-1 and 11-2 Sunday.

But Manager Ralph Houk dismissed any thoughts that Mantle's presence had anything to do with the twin victories that boosted the Yankees to .500 for the first time since May 1.

"The inspiration comes when you get good pitching," Houk said, referring to Mel Stottlemyre's three-hitter and a six-hitter by rookie Bill Burbach

The Pilots, however, have no glorious past or former stars like the Yankees, but for the first 49 games of their existence, they had compiled the rearkable record for an expansion team of having never been shut out.

That ended Saturday when Jim Palmer of Baltimore blanked them, but the Pilots wasted little time returning to their good old ways, scoring five runs in the first inning Sunday en route to a 7-5 victory over the Orioles.

Jim Lonborg also continued to look like the pitcher he was in the past by hurling Boston to an 8-2 victory over Kansas City.

In other games, Washington beat Minnesota 7-5 in 12 innings and Cleveland blanked California 3-0 before losing 3-2. Oakland was reained out at Detroit.

Stottlemyre, 9-4, the best Yankee pitcher since the days of Mantle's prime years, gave up a run in the second inning, worked out of a bases loaded jam in the third and didn't allow a hit for the last six innings.

Joe Pepitone, resembling the sluggers who won pennants for the Yanks of yesteryear, supplied the power with his 13th homer of the season with two on in the fourth off loser Gerry Nyman, 2-2.

After the between-game ceremonies in which Mantle's No. 7 uniform was officially retired, Burbach, 3-4, took over. He gave up only a third inning home to Ed Hermann and a run in the eighth and started a decisive five-run fifth inning with a double.

Pepitone's two-run single capped the rally and Horace Clarke tripled in three runs in the netx inning.

"It was a good day all round," said a smiling Houk

Belmont To Arts & Letters, Majestic Prince Bid Fails

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Will they love Majestic Prince in September as they did in May?

Frank McMahon's big chestnut colt, who raced to spectacular victories in the Kentucky Derby and Preakness last month and into the hearts and imagination of the public, is no longer unbeaten and is not the Triple Crown champion his admirers hoped for.

Defeat, by 5½ lengths, came Saturday in the $147,800 Belmont Stakes and the conqueror was Rokeby Stable's Arts and Letters, the Prince's victim by a neck in the Derby and by a head in the Preakness.

Who's better?—a question that now has a solid foundation considering Arts and Letters' romp in the tough, 1½-mile Belmont compared to Majestic Prince's narrow victories in the shorter Derby and Preakness.

The answer should start coming in the late summer or fall when the two colts return to the races after being rested.

"Maybe we're the champion after all," trainer Elliott Burch, who, with Arts and Letters, scored his third Belmore victory, said Sunday. "We lost the first two by less than a half length and won this one by 5½.

"It was one of those things," said Johnny Longden, trainer of Majestic Prince. "I still think we have a good horse, and he'll be back in the fall."

The Belmont had no sooner ended, with Dike, Distray, Rooney's Shield and Prime Fool following the Big Two under the wire, than the second guessing started.

Was Bill Hartack, aboard Majestic Prince, fooled by the exceedingly slow pace? Was the distance too much for the Prince? Was he fit?

"The colt just relaxed too much on Bill without him realizing it," said Longden. "There's no doubt Hartack should have been closer to such a slow pace, but I'm not blaming anybody."

However, television commentator Eddie Arcaro, like Longden a former great jockey, said:

"I've never seen anyone trapped by such a slow pace in a Belmont. I think it cost him his chance for the Triple Crown."

Hartack, who would not comment, kept Majestic Prince off the pace even after Arts and Letters had taken the lead and by the time Prince made his challenge, the winner and jockey Braulio Baeza were too far in front. The time was 2:28 4-5, far off the track and stakes record of 2:26 3-5 by Gallant Man in 1957.

Longden, who wanted to skip the Belmont because the Prince had lost weight and because he thought 1½ miles was too much as this stage of the career, didn't think the distance beat his colt. Burch agreed.

"It wasn't the fact that he couldn't catch my horse at a mile and a half Saturday."

Longden, who was overruled by McMahon in his decision to skip the Belmont, said there was nothing wrong with the Prince's condition going into the race, and McMahon said the colt would not run if he was not sound, regardless of the fact he was stabled at Belmont Park.

Sunday, Longden said, "No regrets. The horse pulled up okay, and now I can give him a rest and that's about it."

In other races Saturday, Compass Farms' North Flight, carrying top weight of 123 pounds, trounced seven other 3-year-olds in the $30,080 Kent Stakes at Delaware Park as heavily backed One for All finished a disappointing third. North Flight paid $15.00 and covered the one mile grass special in 1:37.

Emanuel Mittman's Swoonland set a turf course record in winning the second division of the one-mile Oceanport Handicap at Monmouth Park. A rank outsider, Mara Lark, was a surprse winner in the first half of the split race.

Swoonland, with Ron Turcotte aboard, paid $9.80, $3.80 and $2.80. Mara Lark paid $63.80, $21.40 and $9.60.

Swoonland covered the mile in 1:36 1-5, carrying 113 pounds, and Mara Lark negotiated the distance in 1:37. Mara Lark carried 110 pounds.

Victor Mosca's unheralded Double Ripple and Woodside Stud's veteran Stakes campaigner Back in Paris won divisions of the split Whitemarsh Handicap at Liberty Bell Park.

Double Ripple who covered the mile in 1:36.3, a Liberty Bell record for the distance and returned $16.40, $8.20 and $3.80. Back in Paris, who was clocked at 1:37, paid $8.60, $4.00 and $3.60.

Steelers Ink Campbell, May Shift Him To End

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Bob Campbell, Penn State's flashy but injury-ridden halfback, has signed a contract with the Pittsburgh Steelers and the club says it may shift him to split end.

The Steelers announced the signing of the six-foot, 190-pound Campbell, a fifth round draft choice, Saturday, but did not disclose terms of the agreement.

A spokesman said, however, that the club was convinced Campbell is physically fit and ready for the rigors of professional football either at halfback or split end.

The 21-year-old back missed three games last season with a shoulder injury and sat out a part of the previous season with a bad knee. Despite the injuries, Campbell led Penn State in rushing as a sophomore and finished second last year.

He climaxed his college career with a key performance in the Nittany Lions' 15-14 victory over Kansas in the Orange Bowl. He caught a long pass to set off Penn State's last minute touchdown and then ran for the two - point conversion that clinched victory in the closing seconds.

Meanwhile, the Steelers said they are continuing contract negotiations with Terry Hanratty, the star Notre Dame quarterback from Butler. The spokesman said the club doesn't anticipate any problem signing Hanratty.

Casper Wins Western, Looks To U.S. Open

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

MIDLOTHIAN, Ill. (AP) — Buffalo Billy Casper set his sights on a third United States Open golf championship today, his confidence bubbling, his game in great shape and his troublesome allergy problems subsiding.

"This sets me up very well for the Open," for one-time fat man said Sunday after shooting a brilliant, four-under-par 67 and winning the $26,000 first prize in the Western Open by four strokes on the water-logged Midlothian Country Club course.

"I'm driving the ball very well, and long for me," the 38-year-old master said. "I hit a lot of good irons. And it gives you a great deal of confidence to roll in some putts like I did." "Does winning this one make you the man to beat in the Open?" someone asked.

Billy laughed.

"Sure, if..." he said. "If I continue to drive the ball well, hit my irons real good, chip well and can drop some long putts, well, I'll be pretty hard to beat."

That formula, near-perfect golf, was his combination in winning his third Western title, one of the most prestigious in the country and second in age only to U.S. Open, which will be played this week in Houston.

A steady, 18-hour rain lifted midway through Casper's round, but left the 6,654-yard course a series of pools and puddles.

"When I teed off, I was surprised we were playing," Casper said.

Casper, who won his 43rd tour victory, pushed his career money winnings to $957,000. He finished with a 72-hole total of 276, four strokes in front of long-shot Rocky Thompson, in second with a 69 for 280.

Third-round leader Frank Beard fell to a 74 for 281 and third place, followed by England's Peter Townsend, 72 for 283. They were the only men to beat par for the tournament.

South African Gary Player, 72, was one of five at par 284. PGA champ Julius Boros had a 72 for 285; Masters champ George Archer 73 for 287, U.S. Open champ Lee Trevino a 73 for 288, defending champion Jack Nicklaus a 73 for 291.

Casper, winner of the Bob Hope Desert Classic early this year, but playing relatively poorly in recent weeks, said he may have solved some of the allergy problems that have plagued him.

"I'm going to Houston fortified," he said. "I've been living with a doctor for a week and a half and we think we may have worked something out.

First Ohio Win Ever

Ohio U. Nips W. Michigan For Central Track Title

BOWLING GREEN OHIO (AP) — Ohio University edged defending champion Western Michigan by a half a point Saturday to become the first Ohio school to ever win the Central Collegiate Conference Track and Field Championship.

The Bobcats ran up 61 points to Western's 60½ after a furious finish at the 44th annual meet which saw six records fall.

Kansas, the pre-meet favorite, competed without world record holder Jim Ryun and finished third with 60 points.

Notre Dame was fourth with 49 followed by Kent State 36, Indiana 34. Michigan State 32, Bowling Green 30, Southern Illinois 26 and Pittsburgh 25.

Ryun and half a dozen others Kansas standouts skipped the meet to participate in the Compton Relays in California.

Western Michigan came into the final mile relay event needing third place or better to win the crown, but trailed in fourth place behind record - setter Michigan State, Southern Illinois and Notre Dame.

First-day leader Ohio, with 30 points, took a first and second in the javelin, a second in the 120 high hurdles, a fourth in the 440 and a vital sixth in the three mile which took it over the top.

The Bobcats' sole victory of the day came from Don Fish who threw the javelin 238 feet.

Bowling Green's Sid Sink was the only double winner at the meet. He ran the mile in 4:04.1, the best time in Ohio this year, and took the 3000 steeple chase Friday. He was voted the meet's outstanding competitor.

There were ten records in all counting new marks Friday in the hammer throw and six mile run. Saturday's records came in the 120 high hurldes, the 100 and 220 dashes, the 440, 880, mile relay, pole vault and three mile run.

Kansas' Ron Jessie set the hurdle pace with a 13.9 topping the 21-year-old mark of 14.0 set in 1948 by Bill Porter of Northwestern.

The other records:

Big Ten champion Larry Highbaugh of Indiana in the 100 with a 9.4; Tom Turner of Murray State in the 440 with a 45.9—the third best time in the nation; Michigan State's Roger Merchant 880 in 1:48.9; Tom Randolph of Western Michigan in the 220 with a 20.8; NCAA indoor king Les Smith of Miami in the pole vault with a 16-53¾; former Olympic star Oscar Moore of Southern Illinois with a 13:39.7 in the three mile and Michigan State in the mile relay with a blistering 3:08.3.

Notre Dame's Bill Hurd, the defending champ in the 100 and 220, finished second in both events.

He was a tenth of a second behind the winners in both events. Five other defending titlists were dethroned.

Win French Tennis

Rod Laver, Mrs. Court Halfway To Grand Slam

By GGEOFFREY MILLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

PARIS (AP) — Rod Laver and Mrs. Margaret Court, Australia's hottest tennis stars, left today for the grass courts of England and the next stage of their bid for a double Grand Slam.

They have won the singles titles in the Australian championships and the French championships, which finished at the Roland Garros Stadium Sunday.

Now they tackle the All-England Championships at Wimbledon, which starts in two weeks. The American Open Championships—the last of the year's Big Four events—are scheduled to start at Forest Hills, New York, Aug. 28.

Two men have pulled off the Grand Slam—Donald Budge in 1938 and Laver in 1962.

Only one woman player has done it—Maureen "Little Mo" Connolly in 1953.

Laver, 30, has won $64,210 in prize money in 16 weeks of tournament play. Long recognized as supreme on fast surfaces, he mastered his old rival Ken Rosewall, the king of clay courts for a decade, in straight sets in the final here.

Mrs. Court won the Women's crown Sunday by defeating Mrs. Ann Jones of Britain 6-1, 4-6, 6-3.

Laver said the Grand Slam is something a player might pull off once in a lifetime.

"So I'm not setting my sights on it," the little lefthander said.

The French championships were disappointing for the Americans. Arthur Ashe, Stan Smith and Cliff Richey all failed after reaching the last 16.

Riverview, Salem Sweep In Colt Play

Riverview and Salem swept doubleheaders in Colt League play yesterday.

Riverview traveled to Richmond and beat the home team 9-6 and 6-3. John Cunningham and Randy McVay were the winning pitchers, while Dave Rogers slammed a homer in the opener.

Central Service visited Salem and was not so lucky, as the hosts swept the doubleheader 4-1 and 5-1. Steffel and Markovich were the winners and Bob Taggert and Fred Henderson the losers.

In a Saturday game, the Lawyers edged Central 6-5 in eight innings. George Whitaker picked up the win in relief, his third without a loss. Talbot was the loser. Rick Lockhart doubled and Rick Sheppard singled him home with the winning run.

Blair-Morse Wins 3 Of 4 Games

Sports Whirled

By TURK PIERCE
Review Sports Editor

There will be a glittering array of high school basketball talent on hand for the sixth annual Ohio North-South Cage Classic at Marion June 21.

The North squad is led by Nick Weatherspoon, Luke Witte, Abe Steward and Dave Merchant, while the South counters with Ed Ratleff, Nick Connor, Allan Hornyak and Willie Townsend.

Weatherspoon is the Canton McKinley ace who was named "Player of the Year" by the Associated Press. The 6-7 "Spoon," who has an excellent outside shot, averaged 25.2 points a game in leading the Bulldogs to the state finals. He was named MVP in the Dapper Dan Roundball Classic and will attend Illinois U.

Witte, 6-11, was a one-man gang for Malington, scoring 751 points for the Dukes. He hit 66 per cent of his field goal attempts. Witte will attend Ohio State.

STEWARD, 6-5, led Toledo Libbey to the state semi-finals and starred as Libbey almost upset state champ Columbus East. An extremely smooth player, Steward averaged 22 points a game this year.

Merchant, 6-1, of Marion Harding, was another all-stater. He averaged 26 points a game this season and will attend Ohio State.

Others on the North team are 6-11 Jim Andrews of Lima Bath who averaged 33.5 and will attend Kentucky; Dave Gores of Coshocton 6-2, who will attend Muskingum; Class A AP Player of the Year Dan Thallman of Bloomville, 6-6, who will attend Ashland; George Trotogott of Champion, Ron Anderegg of Lakewood and Randy Caipen of Tallmadge.

The South has the benefit of the Columbus East deadly duo of Ratleff and Connor, who took the Tigers to two straight state titles. Both are 6-6, ferocious rebounders and deadly shooters.

HORNYAK of Bellaire St. John's, averaged over 40 points a game the past two seasons, hitting 55 per cent of his shots, mostly from long range. He also will attend Ohio State.

Townsend, 6-4, combined with his brother Payton, a 1968 graduate, to lead Hamilton Garfield to the state finals in 1968.

Others on the South squad are Bob McEvoy of Zanesville, Dave Blevins of Portsmouth Clay, Steve Hess of Greenon, Derrek Dickey of Cincinnati Purcell, Skip Downard of Wellston and Gary Lawrence of Granville.

Bob Rupert of Canton McKinley and Leigh Klingensmith of Spingfield Local will coach the North and Bob Hart of Columbus East and Arch Justus of Portsmouth Clay will coach the South.

THE NORTH has won the last three games and leads 3-2 in the series.

Reserved seats are sold out, but general admission tickets at $1.50 may be obtained by writing ticket manager Dick Brown, % North-South Cage Classic in Marion, 43302.

JOE MASSEY of East Liverpool, a 1969 Thiel graduate, has been named to "Outstanding College Athletes of America," a publication that features the top 5,000 all-round athletes in college.

JOEL PETKOVICH, a 1968 graduate of Beaver Local, is transferring from Marysville (Tenn.) College to Youngstown State U. Petkovich, who played baseball and basketball at Beaver Local, hopes to play baseball at YSU.

Wm. Penn Blanked Twice

Blair - Morse won three of four games over the weekend, sweeping a Hot Stove League doubleheader from William Penn AC of Alliance yesterday and splitting a Connie Mack League doubleheader with Town and Country of Sharon Saturday.

All games were at the Colt League Field. The team is now 6-1 in Hot Stove League play.

Mike Piatt and Bill Montgomery pitched shutouts in the doubleheader sweep. Montgomery, in the opener, allowed four hits and fanned 13 in a 4-0 win. Piatt, in the 6-0 nightcap, allowed only three hits. Dan Cunningham hit a three - run homer to spark the opening win and added a single. In the nightcap he also hit a three - run homer and added a single. Cecil Barker double in the opener and Rex Campbell in the second game.

Jeff Hall pitched a one-hitter and Campbell homered for the only run in the win over Town and Country Saturday. Barker also doubled in this game. Hall fanned 13 batters.

Sharon took the nightcap 9-1 as Tom Stinard was the loser in relief. Stinard and John Haney had two hits each.

By JOHN MUELLER

The sun was hiding behind the clouds Saturday evening but Lady Luck flashed a smile that was enough to light up the Midland diamond and the hopes of the Midland Legion team as it was handed three runs without the benefit of a hit and battled the Highland Legion to a 4-4 tie in eight innings.

The game was called because of darkness. The tie game leaves the Midland team with a 3-1 record and a share of the western division Beaver County Legion League lead.

Highland scored two runs in its half of the final frame to take a 4-1 lead but its pitchers ran into control trouble and Midland tied it up. Greg Musgrave, Highland's starting hurler, had walked just five batters in six innings and gave up three hits. He opened the seventh frame with a base on balls to pinch-hitter Dave Matteo. Ross Ranelli sent a routine fly to center for the initial out. Musgrave at this point could not find the plate as he walked Larry Anderson on four straight pitches. He threw two balls to the next battr, Bob Prodonovich, before firing a strike, but came back with two balls and his third walk of the frame. Denny Caldwell relieved Musgrave and walked Mark Braund to force Matteo in with the first run. Caldwell then hit Paul Francis and Anderson came over with the second run. George Mraovic hit a bounder to the pitcher and Prodonovich was forced at the plate for the second out. Ron Misorski drew a walk and Joe D'Itri, running for Braund, came home with the tying run. Scotty Newtz grounded out to end the weird inning.

Midland loaded the bases in the extra frame but failed to score and the game was called because of darkness. Matteo led off with a single and stole second. Ranelli fouled out to the catcher. Anderson walked as Caldwell was having serious control problems. He struck out Prodonovich, but followed with a walk to D'Itri to load the bases. Working to Francis he cut loose with a wild pitch, but Matteo, working on fake breaks to the plate, had turned back to third and when he tried to score on the wild pitch he was out at the plate as the catcher, Brian McCarl, fired to Caldwell covering the plate.

Midland picked up a run in the first inning to take a 1-0 lead. After two were out, Prodonovich tripled to deep right center and Braund walked on four straight pitches. Braund and Prodonovich worked the double steal to register the run.

Highland tied it up in the second as it cracked out four singles off Midland's starting pitcher, Joe Pillar.

Highland took a one-run lead in the fourth as Jerry Matiyak opened with a single and moved to second as Ken Wagoner grounded out. Jim Betke doubled to deep center to score the runner but was out trying to stretch the hit into a triple.

Prodonovich relieved Pillar at the start of the seventh frame and Highland promptly bombed him for four hits and two runs to take a 4-1 lead. Betke opened with a single. Stan Weister was called out for crossing the plate on an attempted sacrifice but Bob Coughanour doubled to left center, Betke holding at third. McCarl singled and both runners scored. Caldwell popped out to Mraovic but Terry Thellman walked. Musgrave singled to load the bases but Matiyak lined a soft liner to Anderson to end the inning and set the stage for the weird doings that can happen in the game of baseball.

Pillar started for Midland, gave up a pair of runs on eight hits, struck out three, walked three and hit one batter. Prodonovich gave up two runs, four hits and walked one.

Musgrave allowed three runs and three hits in six and one third innings, struck out four and walked eight. Caldwell was charged with one run and one hit in one and two thirds innings, walked four and hit one batter.

Yankees Honor Mantle, Sweep Doubleheader

Associated Press Sports Writer

Good pitching, not Mickey Mantle Day, inspired the New York Yankees to play like the Yankees of old. And it also served as an inspiration for the new Seattle Pilots to play like the Pilots of old.

With many former great Yankees and the largest crowd in the majors this season—60,096—on hand to do honor to Mantle, the Yankees swept a doubleheader from the Chicago White Sox 3-1 and 11-2 Sunday.

But Manager Ralph Houk dismissed any thoughts that Mantle's presence had anything to do with the twin victories that boosted the Yankees to .500 for the first time since May 1.

"The inspiration comes when you get good pitching," Houk said, referring to Mel Stottlemyre's three-hitter and a six-hitter by rookie Bill Burbach

The Pilots, however, have no glorious past or former stars like the Yankees, but for the first 49 games of their existence, they had compiled the rearkable record for an expansion team of having never been shut out.

That ended Saturday when Jim Palmer of Baltimore blanked them, but the Pilots wasted little time returning to their good old ways, scoring five runs in the first inning Sunday en route to a 7-5 victory over the Orioles.

Jim Lonborg also continued to look like the pitcher he was in the past by hurling Boston to an 8-2 victory over Kansas City.

In other games, Washington beat Minnesota 7-5 in 12 innings and Cleveland blanked California 3-0 before losing 3-2, Oakland was reained out at Detroit.

Stottlemyre, 9-4, the best Yankee pitcher since the days of Mantle's prime years, gave up a run in the second inning, worked out of a bases loaded jam in the third and didn't allow a hit for the last six innings.

Joe Pepitone, resembling the sluggers who won pennants for the Yanks of yesteryear, supplied the power with his 13th homer of the season with two on in the fourth off loser Gerry Nyman, 2-2.

After the between-game ceremonies in which Mantle's No. 7 uniform was officially retired, Burbach, 3-4, took over. He gave up only a third inning home to Ed Hermann and a run in the eighth and started a decisive five-run fifth inning with a double.

Pepitone's two-run single capped the rally and Horace Clarke tripled in three runs in the netx inning.

"It was a good day all round," said a smiling Houk

Expos End Loss Streak, Braves Sweep Pirates

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Gene Mauch finally has kicked his habit, with a helping hand from the Montreal Expos' new third base coach. . . a fellow named Gene Mauch.

Mauch, long-suffering manager of the National League expansion club, stationed himself on the coaching line for the first time this season Sunday . . . and the Expos promptly broke their near-record losing streak at 20 games by squeezing past Los Angeles 4-3.

"I decided I'd try it while I was driving home last night," the Expos' skipper said of his decision to quit the dugout for the third base coach's box. "I was the best third base coach I ever saw when I was in the minors.

"If I thought it would help, I'd coach both first and third base at the same time."

Rookie right-hander Jerry Robertson, backed by Rusty Staub's two-run homer and Mack Jones' bases-empty blast, posted his first major league victory as the Expos ended their tailspin three losses short of the all-time mark . . . set by Mauch's 1961 Philadelphia Phillies.

The New York Mets ran their unbeaten string to 10 games with a 3-2 comeback victory over San Diego; San Francisco stritched Philadelphia's losing skein to eight games with a 9-8 12-inning nod; Houston nipped St. Louis 2-1 in 11 innings and Atlanta swept a doubleheader from Pittsburgh 11-10 and 4-3.

Rain washed out the Cincinnati-Chicago Cubs game.

Robertson, starting for only the fourth time, took a two-hitter and a 4-1 lead into the ninth at Los Angeles, but gave up two more hits and needed help from veteran Elroy Face as the Dodgers rallied for a pair of runs.

"The toughest part of the whole streak was that ninth inning," said Mauch.

Wayne Garrett's run-scoring single capped a two-run eighth inning rally that swept the Mets past San Diego, giving right-hander Tom Seaver his ninth victory against three losses.

Garden Walk Tips Offered

A garden walk can be both useful and attractive.

It is the sort of project a home owner can complete in a weekend or work on occasionally through the summer, since it is one you can start and stop easily.

The materials are varied in appearance, style and price. Some can be used in combination with others.

When most people think of a path through a garden, they think in terms of flagstone. They are expensive, but you can cut down on costs by using them as stepping stones instead of trying to make a solid path.

If you are just going to flop them on top of the ground, the thicker and heavier ones are better, more stable.

For a more formal walk, dig out enough earth for about two inches of sand to serve as a base. This will compensate for different thicknesses of stone. Make wood forms for the walk before pouring the sand.

If you want to make it a semi-permanent walk, the easy way is to sweep in a mixture of one part cement, two parts fine sand (or a ready-mix of about the same proportions) and, with the cracks filled, wet down with a fine spray of water.

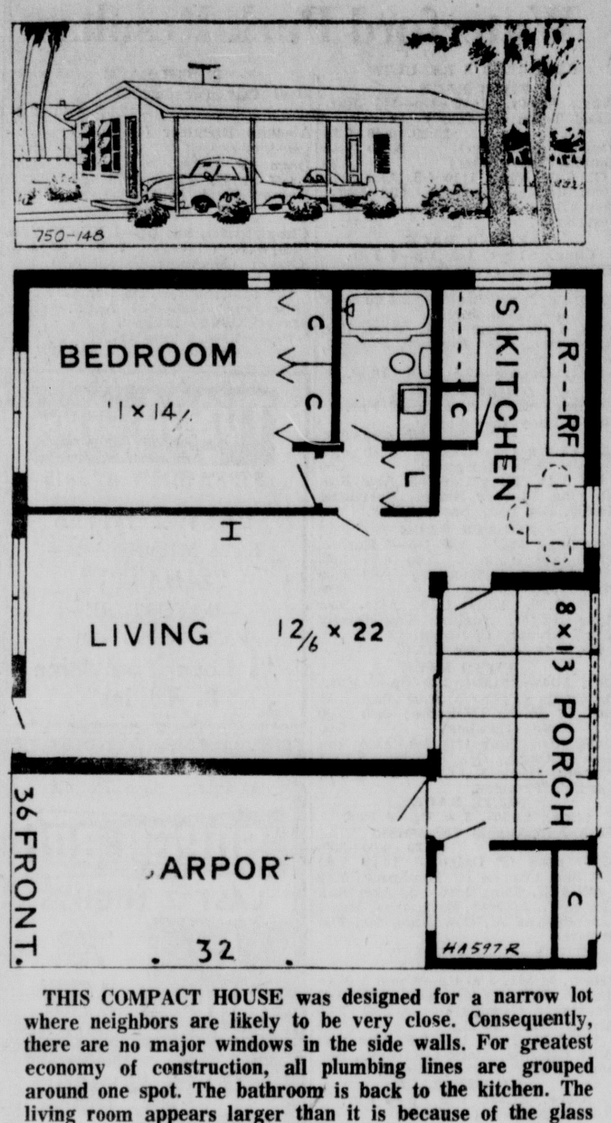
For a really permanent walk, make a standard concrete walk for a base first — about four inches of gravel and a couple of inches of concrete. Place the stones, sweep the dry mix into the cracks as mentioned above and wet down.

Bricks make an attractive walk and can be set in a bed of sand or in a concrete base just as flagstone. Since they are regular in shape, they are easier to butt together for a smooth walk.

Wood makes a different and attractive path. Whatever wood you use should be treated with a preservative. Redwood, cypress and cedar will be the most durable but you can make others durable by treating them.

Two-inch slabs cut from logs can be set in sand or right in the soil for a quick and easy walkway. Old railroad ties, cut into blocks, can be used the way you would bricks.

If you plan to make your wooden path more lasting by setting the pieces in concrete, make certain the wood rests on gravel and not the concrete.



THIS COMPACT HOUSE was designed for a narrow lot where neighbors are likely to be very close. Consequently, there are no major windows in the side walls. For greatest economy of construction, all plumbing lines are grouped around one spot. The bathroom is back to the kitchen. The living room appears larger than it is because of the glass areas at both ends. The carport is deep enough to house a compact car plus a small boat. Architect for Plan HA597R is Jan Reiner of 1000 52nd St. North, St. Petersburg, Fla.

Replacement Of Window Sill And Plugging Of Leak Aired

AP Newsfeatures

Q. — One of the window sills at the back of our house has become rotted and I would like to replace it. Is there some way to remove the old one without removing the entire window casing?

A. — Saw off as much as you can. Cut at an angle and use the front teeth of the saw, since you won't be able to manipulate the saw any other way. Use a wood chisel to split off pieces of the old sill and take out the rest of it with a pry bar.

The replacement can be made with a standard - size sill, if your dealer has the right one in stock. If not, he can make one according to your measurements. Or, if you have the proper power tools, you can make one yourself. Before replacing, be sure to pull out all protruding nails.

Q. — A couple of months ago, we had a leak in the basement ceiling and traced it to tiny openings around the top of the bathtub where the tub meets the wall. The leak occurred whenever someone was using the wall shower.

Rather than using tub sealing compound, we bought pieces of long ceramic border tiles made especially for the tub - wall joints. We cemented them on according to instructions and were very proud of the job, as it looked much nicer and neater than ever before.

But now the leaking has started again, in exactly the same places, and always when a shower is being taken. How does the water get behind the joint tiles, which seem to be very tightly in place?

A. — If you look a little closer, perhaps with a flashlight, you'll probably discover two or three places where openings, almost invisible, are nevertheless large enough to permit the entry of water. The mistake you appear to have made was in not sealing the joints thoroughly before cementing the tile into place. You then would have had double protection, with very little likelihood of any further trouble.

You can try to put some tub sealer into the gaps to prevent any more leaks, but if that doesn't work, you'll face the disagreeable task of removing the long tiles and starting all over again.

Q. — I want to put in some interior trim with a walnut finish, but would like to use a cheaper wood than walnut. What kind of wood would you recommend that can be made to resemble walnut with the right stain?

A. — How close you come to imitating walnut will depend a lot on how carefully you work and how much patience you have in getting the right match. Gum wood is often used as a substitute for walnut, but check prices, to be sure the difference is worth the extra trouble.

State Engineer Has Plans For Building

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State Architect Carl Bentz wants to replace the Statehouse annex with a two-story underground legislative office building.

He said he would present the designs to the Legislative Office Building Committee today. The plan calls for two sun wells that would extend down through the building to provide daylight and fresh air.

Ohio, admitted to the Union in 1803, was the first state carved out of the Northwest Territory.

Scientists Study Aging Of Humans

CHICAGO (AP) — Aging of humans is under study by a team of scientists at Downey Veterans Administration Hospital in an effort to determine what is involved in the process.

Hyman Weinstein, chief of the research - in - aging laboratory, said more than 25 scientists from several Midwestern universities are involved in the project.

Their laboratories are seeking scientific information about the complex substances that form human connective tissues.

Scientists believe the "weathering" by constant exposure to sun and wind and resulting permanent changes in the skin may represent chemical alterations related to the aging process.

"The skin's constant exposure to the wind and sun may cause it to "age" more quickly than skin on protected parts of the body," Dr. Weinstein said.

An edition of the Bible printed in London in 1632 became known as the Wicked Bible because the printing omitted the word "not" in the seventh commandment, causing it to read? "Thou shalt commit adultery."

Fence Restores Privacy

Building a fence along the street is an obvious answer, and it's a sensible one, too. Fences don't need time to grow, as a hedge does, nor do they require space or demand watering and pruning. In just the weekend that it takes to build one, a street screening can transform an ordinary front yard to a gracious entrance court.

While construction time is short, it's smart to figure several weeks of planning, for the choice in fence patterns is abundant.

Slat screens, built with 1-by-1s, 1 - by - 2s and 2-by-2s, or a combination, are currently tops in popularity. A deceptively light look belies their opaque quality and slat screens adapt well to both formal and informal landscaping.

Easy to build, the basic pattern has 1-by-1s or 1-by-2s face-nailed vertically to the edges of fence rails or, in a horizontal application, across the face of posts.

Maximum span distance is three feet. To carry a vertical application, a six - foot-high fence should have three rails. For a horizontal application, 4-by-4-inch posts should be spaced six feet on center, with a 2-by-4 line post set between pairs of 4-by-4s.

On a sloping site, sections of the fence can be stepped down, keeping top rails perfectly straight and level. A horizontal pattern is especially good here, since slats can be carried straight across, from section to section, despite a step - down in panels.

Before signing a lease on a vacation house — for a week or season — consider your requirements.

Do you want to "rough it" or do you want to act as custodian for someone's treasures?

The average person contacts real estate agents or owners by letter or telephone and talks only price, the proximity of the place to one or another point of interest, and establishes that there are enough sleeping spaces for occupants.

He may even justify the lack of bedrooms by deciding that the "kids will enjoy camping in the living room in sleeping bags."

WHEN THE lease arrives, he may note that the "double" bedroom is a room with "twin sleeping accommodations." (It may be discovered that the room accommodates a twin cot that can't be used unless the bedroom door is left open.)

In renting a house, you should present your own bill of particulars. You want easy maintenance and comfort, and you don't want to be a workhorse taking care of expensive furnishings. Put it up to the lessor.

And try to get in writing that here is nothing that can be damaged so that he won't sue you if the children throw a ball that just happens to hit his inexpensive lampshade.

Ask exactly how many beds there are, and how many actual bedrooms.

Ask about the kitchen facilities, water, stove, and whether the oven and refrigerator are in good repair. Make him put those guarantees in your lease.

THE TRICKIEST item in a rental lease is the one that says the tenant must leave the house as he found it.

A genial landlord may mean nothing more than the house should be left clean, but a lint-picking lessor may have other ideas. If you have children, he will blame you for the 20-year-old fruit stains on he Persian rug and the crack in the Victorian vase that was probably made by his grandmother. If he has real antiques, you may expect to be assessed for every chip, crack or dent he discovers.

He no doubt may be sincere. He has never really looked at these things objectively before, but now people have been goading him with, "Good heavens, you didn't rent to a family with children!"

The lease clause also guarantees him a clean house when you depart from it.

Time was when one just turned in the key after sweeping the floor of the rented house. But now one often is expected to do a job that prepares the house for the next occupant or a visit from a dignitary. That means a clean oven, refrigerator, floors, clean linens left on hand. Who needs it?

IT WOULD be a feat of magic to accomplish it, if one plans an early departure. You could sleep on bare mattresses all night, and fly around the room all day before and refrain from using the stove or refrigerator. Or you can spend the night cleaning.

You may be able to leave it in apple - pie order (whatever that is), but to accomplish that you will find yourself cleaning the house of dirt that has been there for 10 years.

Every vacationing family has normal obligations to the owner of the vacation house. If a slip-cover or rug becomes filthy, they should be cleaned. A broken pane of glass should be repaired and any other damages that tenants incur should be put in order.

Some people renting homes to entertain business friends will have different rental requirements, especially if there are no children.

They may want a posh house, expensively furnished. They would be wise to inventory everything, to not existing damage, and to point out such flaws at once to the real estate agent or landlord and to ask for a note in writing that absolves them of damage. (Or the object may be removed from the house.) Otherwise, the landlord's lawyer may present them with a fat bill for repairs because the owner feels justified in the action.

Charles Darwin's visit in 1835 to the Galapagos Islands, 600 miles west of Ecuador, and his studies of the unusual animal life there provided most of the facts for his famous theory of evolution.

The 1906 earthquake that destroyed San Francisco rated 8.2 on the scale developed by seismologist Charles F. Richter. The earthquake in Anchorage and southern Alaska on March 27, 1964, rated 8.5. It ranks as North America's strongest earthquake in modern times.

Belmont To Arts & Letters, Majestic Prince Bid Fails

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Will they love Majestic Prince in September as they did in May?

Frank McMahon's big chestnut colt, who raced to spectacular victories in the Kentucky Derby and Preakness last month and into the hearts and imagination of the public, is no longer unbeaten and is not the Triple Crown champion his admirers hoped for.

Defeat, by 5½ lengths, came Saturday in the $147,800 Belmont Stakes and the conqueror was Rokeby Stable's Arts and Letters, the Prince's victim by a neck in the Derby and by a head in the Preakness.

Who's better?—a question that now has a solid foundation considering Arts and Letters' romp in the tough, 1½-mile Belmont compared to Majestic Prince's narrow victories in the shorter Derby and Preakness.

The answer should start coming in the late summer or fall when the two colts return to the races after being rested.

"Maybe we're the champion after all," trainer Elliott Burch, who, with Arts and Letters, scored his third Belmore victory, said Sunday. "We lost the first two by less than a half length and won this one by 5½.

"It was one of those things," said Johnny Longden, trainer of Majestic Prince. "I still think we have a good horse, and he'll be back in the fall."

The Belmont had no sooner ended, with Dike, Distray, Rooney's Shield and Prime Fool following the Big Two under the wire, than the second guessing started.

Was Bill Hartack, aboard Majestic Prince, fooled by the exceedingly slow pace? Was the distance too much for the Prince? Was he fit?

"The colt just relaxed too much on Bill without him realizing it," said Longden. "There's no doubt Hartack should have been closer to such a slow pace, but I'm not blaming anybody."

However, television commentator Eddie Arcaro, like Longden a former great jockey, said:

"I've never seen anyone trapped by such a slow pace in a Belmont. I think it cost him his chance for the Triple Crown."

Hartack, who would not comment, kept Majestic Prince off the pace even after Arts and Letters had taken the lead and by the time Prince made his challenge, the winner and jockey Braulio Baeza were too far in front. The time was 2:28 4-5, far off the track and stakes record of 2:26 3-5 by Gallant Man in 1957.

Longden, who wanted to skip the Belmont because the Prince had lost weight and because he thought 1½ miles was too much as this stage of the career, didn't think the distance beat his colt. Burch agreed.

"It wasn't the fact that he couldn't catch my horse at a mile and a half Saturday."

Longden, who was overruled by McMahon in his decision to skip the Belmont, said there was nothing wrong with the Prince's condition going into the race, and McMahon said the colt would not run if he was not sound, regardless of the fact he was stabled at Belmont Park.

Sunday, Longden said, "No regrets, I have no regrets. The horse pulled up okay, and now I can give him a rest and that's about it."

In other races Saturday, Compass Farms' North Flight, carrying top weight of 123 pounds, trounced seven other 3-year-olds in the $30,080 Kent Stakes at Delaware Park as heavily backed One for All finished a disappointing third. North Flight paid $15.00 and covered the one mile grass special in 1:37.

Emanuel Mittman's Swoonland set a turf course record in winning the second division of the one-mile Oceanport Handicap at Monmouth Park. A rank outsider, Mara Lark, was a surprse winner in the first half of the split race.

Swoonland, with Ron Turcotte aboard, paid $9.80, $3.80 and $2.80. Mara Lark paid $63.80, $21.40 and $9.60.

Swoonland covered the mile in 1:36 1-5, carrying 113 pounds, and Mara Lark negotiated the distance in 1:37. Mara Lark carried 110 pounds.

Victor Mosca's unheralded Double Ripple and Woodside Stud's veteran Stakes campaigner Back in Paris won divisions of the split Whitemarsh Handicap at Liberty Bell Park.

Double Ripple who covered the mile in 1:36.3, a Liberty Bell record for the distance and returned $16.40, $8.20 and $3.80. Back in Paris, who was clocked at 1:37, paid $8.60, $4.00 and $3.60.

Steelers Ink Campbell, May Shift Him To End

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Bob Campbell, Penn State's flashy but injury-ridden halfback, has signed a contract with the Pittsburgh Steelers and the club says it may shift him to split end.

The Steelers announced the signing of the six-foot, 190-pound Campbell, a fifth round draft choice, Saturday, but did not disclose terms of the agreement.

A spokesman said, however, that the club was convinced Campbell is physically fit and ready for the rigors of professional football either at halfback or split end.

The 21-year-old back missed three games last season with a shoulder injury and sat out a part of the previous season with a bad knee. Despite the injuries, Campbell led Penn State in rushing as a sophomore and finished second last year.

He climaxed his college career with a key performance in the Nittany Lions' 15-14 victory over Kansas in the Orange Bowl. He caught a long pass to set off Penn State's last minute touchdown and then ran for the two - point conversion that clinched victory in the closing seconds.

Meanwhile, the Steelers said they are continuing contract negotiations with Terry Hanratty, the star Notre Dame quarterback from Butler. The spokesman said the club doesn't anticipate any problem signing Hanratty.

First Ohio Win Ever

Ohio U. Nips W. Michigan For Central Track Title

BOWLING GREEN OHIO (AP) — Ohio University edged defending champion Western Michigan by a half a point Saturday to become the first Ohio school to ever win the Central Collegiate Conference Track and Field Championship.

The Bobcats ran up 61 points to Western's 60½ after a furious finish at the 44th annual meet which saw six records fall.

Kansas, the pre-meet favorite, competed without world record holder Jim Ryun and finished third with 60 points.

Notre Dame was fourth with 49 followed by Kent State 36, Indiana 34. Michigan State 32, Bowling Green 30, Southern Illinois 26 and Pittsburgh 25.

Ryun and half a dozen others Kansas standouts skipped the meet to participate in the Compton Relays in California.

Western Michigan came into the final mile relay event needing third place or better to win the crown, but trailed in fourth place behind record - setter Michigan State, Southern Illinois and Notre Dame.

First-day leader Ohio, with 30 points, took a first and second in the javelin, a second in the 120 high hurdles, a fourth in the 440 and a vital sixth in the three mile which took it over the top.

The Bobcats' sole victory of the day came from Don Fish who threw the javelin 238 feet.

Bowling Green's Sid Sink was the only double winner at the meet. He ran the mile in 4:04.1, the best time in Ohio this year, and took the 3000 steeple chase Friday. He was voted the meet's outstanding competitor.

There were ten records in all counting new marks Friday in the hammer throw and six mile run. Saturday's records came in the 120 high hurldes, the 100 and 220 dashes, the 440, 880, mile relay, pole vault and three mile run.

Kansas' Ron Jessie set the hurdle pace with a 13.9 topping the 21-year-old mark of 14.0 set in 1948 by Bill Porter of Northwestern.

The other records:

Big Ten champion Larry Highbaugh of Indiana in the 100 with a 9.4; Tom Turner of Murray State in the 440 with a 45.9—the third best time in the nation; Michigan State's Roger Merchant 880 in 1:48.9; Tom Randolph of Western Michigan in the 220 with a 20.8; NCAA indoor king Les Smith of Miami in the pole vault with a 16-5 3/4; former Olympic star Oscar Moore of Southern Illinois with a 13:39.7 in the three mile and Michigan State in the mile relay with a blistering 3:08.3.

Notre Dame's Bill Hurd, the defending champ in the 100 and 220, finished second in both events.

He was a tenth of a second behind the winners in both events. Five other defending titlists were dethroned.

Team scoring: Ohio Univ. 61, Western Mich. 60½, Kansas 60, Notre Dame 49, Kent State 36, Indiana 34, Michigan State 32, Bowling Green 30, Southern Illinois 26, Pittsburgh 25, Illinois 21½, Kentucky 21. Missouri 20, Miami 18, Ohio State 16½, Drake 15, Lincoln 12, Murry State 12, Wayne State 10, Michigan 10, Mount Union 10, DePaul 8, Central Mich. 7½, Eastern Mich 5, Toledo 4, Carleton 4, Cincinnati 4, Ashland 3, Purdue 2, West Virginia 1, Augustana 1 and Indiana State 1.

Casper Wins Western, Looks To U.S. Open

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

MIDLOTHIAN, Ill. (AP) — Buffalo Billy Casper set his sights on a third United States Open golf championship today, his confidence bubbling, his game in great shape and his troublesome allergy problems subsiding.

"This sets me up very well for the Open," for one-time fat man said Sunday after shooting a brilliant, four-under-par 67 and winning the $26,000 first prize in the Western Open by four strokes on the water-logged Midlothian Country Club course.

"I'm driving the ball very well, and long for me," the 38-year-old master said. "I hit a lot of good irons. And it gives you a great deal of confidence to roll in some putts like I did." "Does winning this one make you the man to beat in the Open?" someone asked.

Billy laughed.

"Sure, if..." he said. "If I continue to drive the ball well, hit my irons real good, chip well and can drop some long putts, well, I'll be pretty hard to beat."

That formula, near-perfect golf, was his combination in winning his third Western title, one of the most prestigious in the country and second in age only to U.S. Open, which will be played this week in Houston.

A steady, 18-hour rain lifted midway through Casper's round, but left the 6,654-yard course a series of pools and puddles.

"When I teed off, I was surprised we were playing," Casper said.

Casper, who won his 43rd tour victory, pushed his career money winnings to $957,000. He finished with a 72-hole total of 276, four strokes in front of long-shot Rocky Thompson, in second with a 69 for 280.

Third-round leader Frank Beard fell to a 74 for 281 and third place, followed by England's Peter Townsend, 72 for 283. They were the only men to beat par for the tournament.

South African Gary Player, 72, was one of five at par 284. PGA champ Julius Boros had a 72 for 285; Masters champ George Archer 73 for 287, U.S. Open champ Lee Trevino a 73 for 288, defending champion Jack Nicklaus a 73 for 291.

Casper, winner of the Bob Hope Desert Classic early this year, but playing relatively poorly in recent weeks, said he may have solved some of the allergy problems that have plagued him.

"I'm going to Houston fortified," he said. "I've been living with a doctor for a week and a half and we think we may have worked something out.

Win French Tennis

Rod Laver, Mrs. Court Halfway To Grand Slam

By GGEOFFREY MILLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

PARIS (AP) — Rod Laver and Mrs. Margaret Court, Australia's hottest tennis stars, left today for the grass courts of England and the next stage of their bid for a double Grand Slam.

They have won the singles titles in the Australian championships and the French championships, which finished at the Roland Garros Stadium Sunday.

Now they tackle the All-England Championships at Wimbledon, which starts in two weeks. The American Open Championships—the last of the year's Big Four events—are scheduled to start at Forest Hills, New York, Aug. 28.

Two men have pulled off the Grand Slam—Donald Budge in 1938 and Laver in 1962.

Only one woman player has done it—Maureen "Little Mo" Connolly in 1953.

Laver, 30, has won $64,210 in prize money in 16 weeks of tournament play. Long recognized as supreme on fast surfaces, he mastered his old rival Ken Rosewall, the king of clay courts for a decade, in straight sets in the final here.

Mrs. Court won the Women's crown Sunday by defeating Mrs. Ann Jones of Britain 6-1, 4-6, 6-3.

Laver said the Grand Slam is something a player might pull off once in a lifetime.

"So I'm not setting my sights on it," the little lefthander said.

The French championships were disappointing for the Americans. Arthur Ashe, Stan Smith and Cliff Richey all failed after reaching the last 16.

Riverview, Salem Sweep In Colt Play

Riverview and Salem swept doubleheaders in Colt League play yesterday.

Riverview traveled to Richmond and beat the home team 9-6 and 6-3. John Cunningham and Randy McVay were the winning pitchers, while Dave Rogers slammed a homer in the opener.

Central Service visited Salem and was not so lucky, as the hosts swept the doubleheader 4-1 and 5-1. Steffel and Markovich were the winners and Bob Taggert and Fred Henderson the losers.

In a Saturday game, the Lawyers edged Central 6-5 in eight innings. George Whitaker picked up the win in relief, his third without a loss. Talbot was the loser. Rick Lockhart doubled and Rick Sheppard singled him home with the winning run.

Hickel Works On Physical Fitness Daily

By STAN BENJAMIN
By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON (AP) — The exercises encourage quick reflexes, accurate counter punching and fancy footwork, useful skills for politics, but they mean physical fitness to Secretary of the Interior Walter J. Hickel.

Hickel, 49, works out almost daily for exactly one hour either in the Interior Department gym or in a private athletic club a few blocks away.

A former Claflin, Kan., farm boy, Hickel won the Kansas Golden Gloves welterweight boxing championship in 1938 at the age of 19.

He has staved in training ever since, and hard work in his adopted state of Alaska helped keep him tough.

In 1940, Hickel turned up in Seward, Alaska, with 37 cents in his pocket. He washed dishes in a cafe, worked for a railroad, and turned to carpentry. Building homes in Anchorage led to a construction business and he was a millionaire by the time he won the Alaska governorship in 1966.

Senator Complains Tape Not On Record

DOVER, Del. (AP) — Republican State Sen. Andy Foltz of Dover took the floor of the Delaware Senate to complain that the method of tape recording Senate sessions wasn't working.

Unable to find a tape from a session last year, Folz said: "There is something seriously wrong when you can't go back one year and find out what happened."

At this point, Foltz was interrupted by Reynolds du Pont, Sen ate president pro tem, who said: "Senator, would you care to repeat what you just said so we could make a record of your comments? The tape just ran out."

As Foltz took his seat, he said: "I'm just a champion of lost causes."

American Tourists Are Biggest Spenders

VIENNA (AP) — Tourists from the United States are the biggest spenders of all foreigners visiting Austria, the Austrian Tourist Office said.

U.S. citizens on the average spend 596 Schillings ($23.80) daily, British visitors 351 Schillings ($14) Swedes 311 Schillings ($12.40), French 272 Schillings ($10.80) and West Germans only 181 Schillings ($7.20).

West Germans, on the other hand, account for the largest number of tourists.

Here's Smoking Pipe That Can Be Washed

CHICAGO (AP) — A washable smoking pipe that can be dunked through the dishwasher is made of pheonolic material that makes it ssubmergible in water.

Its liner, made of a space-age missile nose cone material, can be sponged clean.

Garden Walk Tips Offered

A garden walk can be both useful and attractive.

It is the sort of project a home owner can complete in a weekend or work on occasionally through the summer, since it is one you can start and stop easily.

The materials are varied in appearance, style and price. Some can be used in combination with others.

When most people think of a path through a garden, they think in terms of flagstone. They are expensive, but you can cut down on costs by using them as stepping stones instead of trying to make a solid path.

If you are just going to flop them on top of the ground, the thicker and heavier ones are better, more stable.

For a more formal walk, dig out enough earth for about two inches of sand to serve as a base. This will compensate for different thicknesses of stone. Make wood forms for the walk before pouring the sand.

If you want to make it a semi-permanent walk, the easy way is to sweep in a mixture of one part cement, two parts fine sand (or a ready-mix of about the same proportions) and, with the cracks filled, wet down with a fine spray of water.

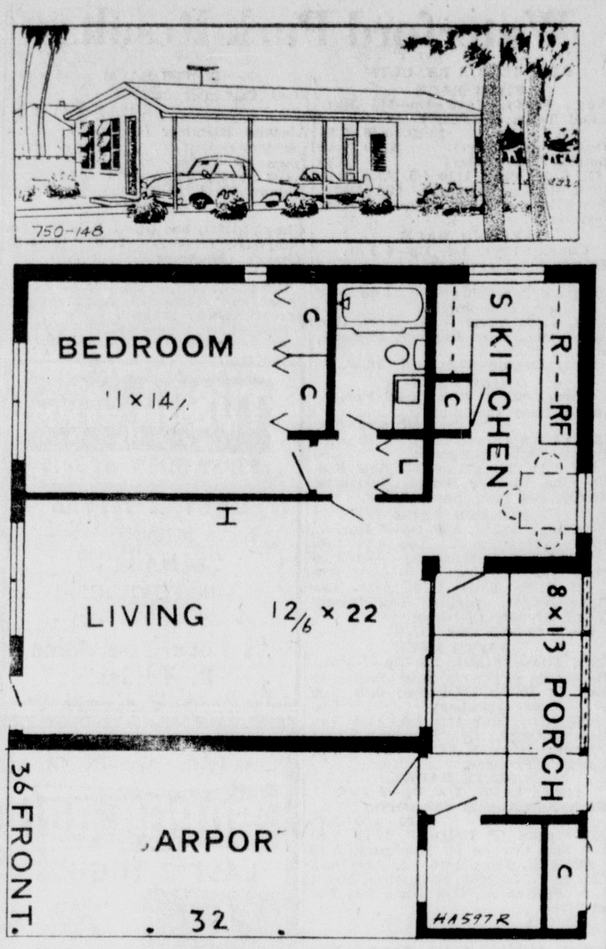
For a really permanent walk, make a standard concrete walk for a base first — about four inches of gravel and a couple of inches of concrete. Place the stones, sweep the dry mix into the cracks as mentioned above and wet down.

Bricks make an attractive walk and can be set in a bed of sand or in a concrete base just as flagstone. Since they are regular in shape, they are easier to butt together for a smooth walk.

Wood makes a different and attractive path. Whatever wood you use should be treated with a preservative. Redwood, cypress and cedar will be the most durable but you can make others durable by treating them.

Two-inch slabs cut from logs can be set in sand or right in the soil for a quick and easy walkway. Old railroad ties, cut into blocks, can be used the way you would bricks.

If you plan to make your wooden path more lasting by setting the pieces in concrete, make certain the wood rests on gravel and not the concrete.



THIS COMPACT HOUSE was designed for a narrow lot where neighbors are likely to be very close. Consequently, there are no major windows in the side walls. For greatest economy of construction, all plumbing lines are grouped around one spot. The bathroom is back to the kitchen. The living room appears larger than it is because of the glass areas at both ends. The carport is deep enough to house a compact car plus a small boat. Architect for Plan HA597R is Jan Reiner of 1000 52nd St. North, St. Petersburg, Fla.

Replacement Of Window Sill And Plugging Of Leak Aired

AP Newsfeatures

Q. — One of the window sills at the back of our house has become rotted and I would like to replace it. Is there some way to remove the old one without removing the entire window casing?

A. — Saw off as much as you can. Cut at an angle and use the front teeth of the saw, since you won't be able to manipulate the saw any other way. Use a wood chisel to split off pieces of the old sill and take out the rest of it with a pry bar.

The replacement can be made with a standard - size sill, if your dealer has the right one in stock. If not, he can make one according to your measurements. Or, if you have the proper power tools, you can make one yourself. Before replacing, be sure to pull out all protruding nails.

Q. — A couple of months ago, we had a leak in the basement ceiling and traced it to tiny openings around the top of the bathtub where the tub meets the wall. The leak occurred whenever someone was using the wall shower.

Rather than using tub sealing compound, we bought pieces of long ceramic border tiles made especially for the tub - wall joints. We cemented them on according to instructions and were very proud of the job, as it looked much nicer and neater than ever before.

But now the leaking has started again, in exactly the same places, and always when a shower is being taken. How does the water get behind the joint tiles, which seem to be very tightly in place?

A. — If you look a little closer, perhaps with a flashlight, you'll probably discover two or three places where openings, almost invisible, are nevertheless large enough to permit the entry of water. The mistake you appear to have made was in not sealing the joints thoroughly before cementing the tile into place. You then would have had double protection, with very little likelihood of any further trouble.

You can try to put some tub sealer into the gaps to prevent any more leaks, but if that doesn't work, you'll face the disagreeable task of removing the long tiles and starting all over again.

Q. — I want to put in some interior trim with a walnut finish, but would like to use a cheaper wood than walnut. What kind of wood would you recommend that can be made to resemble walnut with the right stain?

A. — How close you come to imitating walnut will depend a lot on how carefully you work and how much patience you have in getting the right match. Gum wood is often used as a substitute for walnut, but check prices, to be sure the difference is worth the extra trouble.

State Engineer Has Plans For Building

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State Architect Carl Bentz wants to replace the Statehouse annex with a two-story underground legislative office building.

He said he would present the designs to the Legislative Office Building Committee today. The plan calls for two sun wells that would extend down through the building to provide daylight and fresh air.

Ohio, admitted to the Union in 1803, was the first state carved out of the Northwest Territory.

What's New? Try These!

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

What's new on the market?

The Product — A liquid vinyl that puts a new and permanent coating on tool handles or anything else that needs cushioning, insulating, protecting, decorating or personalizing.

The Manufacturer's Claim — That this liquid will adhere to metal, wood or plastic . . . that it is ready for immediate use from the jar, since the object can be dipped into it or the coating can be brushed on . . . that, using either method, the liquid begins to harden immediately, molding itself into a smooth coating of blue, red, yellow or white, with a wide range of hues and tints possible by mixing . . . that it makes anything easier to grip and that its insulating properties are both thermal and electrical . . . and that it comes in a special jar which is resealable so that the liquid keeps indefinitely.

THE PRODUCT — an exterior gypsum ceiling board designed specifically for exterior ceiling areas not directly exposed to water.

The Manufacturer's Claim — That this gypsum board can be used for open porches, breezeways, carports, exterior soffits, covered walkways and malls that. . .it overcomes moisture problems because of a chemically impregnated face paper, special additives in the gypsum core and treated back paper. . . that it is not susceptible to sagging and warping . . . and that the incombustible gypsum core offers added protection against fire hazards.

—:—

THE PRODUCT — a fringe that gives a decorative effect to an ordinary window shade.

The Manufacturer's Claim — That this fringe has its own adhesive on the back and need only be pressed to the window shade to adhere . . . that it also can be used on lamp shades, valances or anything else where a custom appearance is desired. . . and that it comes in a variety of styles and colors.

—:—

THE PRODUCT — A heavy-duty electric glue gun.

The Manufacturer's Claim— That this gun, a "big brother" to a smaller unit introduced two years ago for the home handyman market, is designed for 60-second bonding of a wide range of materials . . . that it is suited to general assembly, cabinetmaking, upholstering, mending and caulking . . . that it employs cartridges or sticks of hot-melt polyethelene - based glue which hardens through cooling in seconds, eliminating the need for clamping . . . that it is nontoxic, nonirritating and nonflammable . . . and that it has a trigger-operated valve control of glue flow rate and four interchangeable accessory nozzles.

Scientists Study Aging Of Humans

CHICAGO (AP) — Aging of humans is under study by a team of scientists at Downey Veterans Administration Hospital in an effort to determine what is involved in the process.

Hyman Weinstein, chief of the research - in - aging laboratory, said more than 25 scientists from several Midwestern universities are involved in the project.

Their laboratories are seeking scientific information about the complex substances that form human connective tissues.

Scientists believe the "weathering" by constant exposure to sun and wind and resulting permanent changes in the skin may represent chemical alterations related to the aging process.

"The skin's constant exposure to the wind and sun may cause it to "age" more quickly than skin on protected parts of the body," Dr. Weinstein said.

An edition of the Bible printed in London in 1632 became known as the Wicked Bible because the printing omitted the word "not" in the seventh commandment, causing it to read? "Thou shalt commit adultery."

Fence Restores Privacy

When a home's front door is just a stone's throw from a busy street, what can be done to restore privacy to the house and, possibly salvage some use of the front yard?

Building a fence along the street is an obvious answer, and it's a sensible one, too. Fences don't need time to grow, as a hedge does, nor do they require space or demand watering and pruning. In just the weekend that it takes to build one, a street screening can transform an ordinary front yard to a gracious entrance court.

While construction time is short, it's smart to figure several weeks of planning, for the choice in fence patterns is abundant.

Slat screens, built with 1-by-1s, 1 - by - 2s and 2-by-2s, or a combination, are currently tops in popularity. A deceptively light look belies their opaque quality and slat screens adapt well to both formal and informal landscaping.

Easy to build, the basic pattern has 1-by-1s or 1-by-2s face-nailed vertically to the edges of fence rails or, in a horizontal application, across the face of posts.

Maximum span distance is three feet. To carry a vertical application, a six - foot-high fence should have three rails. For a horizontal application, 4-by-4-inch posts should be spaced six feet on center, with a 2-by-4 line post set between pairs of 4-by-4s.

On a sloping site, sections of the fence can be stepped down, keeping top rails perfectly straight and level. A horizontal pattern is especially good here, since slats can be carried straight across, from section to section, despite a step - down in panels.

Vacation Home Tips Seen

AP Newsfeatures

Before signing a lease on a vacation house — for a week or season — consider your requirements.

Do you want to "rough it" or do you want to act as custodian for someone's treasures?

The average person contacts real estate agents or owners by letter or telephone and talks only price, the proximity of the place to one or another point of interest, and establishes that there are enough sleeping spaces for occupants.

He may even justify the lack of bedrooms by deciding that the "kids will enjoy camping in the living room in sleeping bags."

WHEN THE lease arrives, he may note that the "double" bedroom is a room with "twin sleeping accommodations." (It may be discovered that the room accommodates a twin cot that can't be used unless the bedroom door is left open.)

In renting a house, you should present your own bill of particulars. You want easy maintenance and comfort, and you don't want to be a workhorse taking care of expensive furnishings. Put it up to the lessor.

And try to get in writing that here is nothing that can be damaged so that he won't sue you if the children throw a ball that just happens to hit his inexpensive lampshade.

Ask exactly how many beds there are, and how many actual bedrooms.

Ask about the kitchen facilities, water, stove, and whether the oven and refrigerator are in good repair. Make him put those guarantees in your lease.

THE TRICKIEST item in a rental lease is the one that says the tenant must leave the house as he found it.

A genial landlord may mean nothing more than the house should be left clean, but a lint-picking lessor may have other ideas. If you have children, he will blame you for the 20-year-old fruit stains on he Persian rug and the crack in the Victorian vase that was probably made by his grandmother. If he has real antiques, you may expect to be assessed for every chip, crack or dent he discovers.

He no doubt may be sincere. He has never really looked at these things objectively before, but now people have been goading him with, "Good heavens, you didn't rent to a family with children!"

The lease clause also guarantees him a clean house when you depart from it.

Time was when one just turned in the key after sweeping the floor of the rented house. But now one often is expected to do a job that prepares the house for the next occupant or a visit from a dignitary. That means a clean oven, refrigerator, floors, clean linens left on hand. Who needs it?

IT WOULD be a feat of magic to accomplish it, if one plans an early departure. You could sleep on bare mattresses all night, and fly around the room all day before and refrain from using the stove or refrigerator. Or you can spend the night cleaning.

You may be able to leave it in apple - pie order (whatever that is), but to accomplish that you will find yourself cleaning the house of dirt that has been there for 10 years.

Every vacationing family has normal obligations to the owner of the vacation house. If a slip-cover or rug becomes filthy, they should be cleaned. A broken pane of glass should be repaired and any other damages that tenants incur should be put in order.

Some people renting homes to entertain business friends will have different rental requirements, especially if there are no children.

They may want a posh house, expensively furnished. They would be wise to inventory everything, to not existing damage, and to point out such flaws at once to the real estate agent or landlord and to ask for a note in writing that absolves them of damage. (Or the object may be removed from the house.) Otherwise, the landlord's lawyer may present them with a fat bill for repairs because the owner feels justified in the action.

Charles Darwin's visit in 1835 to the Galapagos Islands, 600 miles west of Ecuador, and his studies of the unusual animal life there provided most of the facts for his famous theory of evolution.

The 1906 earthquake that destroyed San Francisco rated 8.2 on the scale developed by seismologist Charles F. Richter. The earthquake in Anchorage and southern Alaska on March 27, 1964, rated 8.5. It ranks as North America's strongest earthquake in modern times.

Hickel Works On Physical Fitness Daily

By STAN BENJAMIN
By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON (AP) — The exercises encourage quick reflexes, accurate counter punching and fancy footwork, useful skills for politics, but they mean physical fitness to Secretary of the Interior Walter J. Hickel.

Hickel, 49, works out almost daily for exactly one hour either in the Interior Department gym or in a private athletic club a few blocks away.

Udall used to say, "I love that expression 'run for your life.'"

The big Arizonan was a familiar figure in blue workout clothes, jogging across capital parks or in the vanguard of a clutch of VIP's opening a new jogging trail.

Hickel's daily routine is that of a boxer: punching the speed bag, skipping rope, and jogging a precise 17 laps around the gym.

A former Claflin, Kan., farm boy, Hickel won the Kansas Golden Gloves welterweight boxing championship in 1938 at the age of 19.

He has staved in training ever since, and hard work in his adopted state of Alaska helped keep him tough.

In 1940, Hickel turned up in Seward, Alaska, with 37 cents in his pocket. He washed dishes in a cafe, worked for a railroad, and turned to carpentry. Building homes in Anchorage led to a construction business and he was a millionaire by the time he won the Alaska governorship in 1966.

Senator Complains Tape Not On Record

DOVER, Del. (AP) — Republican State Sen. Andy Foltz of Dover took the floor of the Delaware Senate to complain that the method of tape recording Senate sessions wasn't working.

Unable to find a tape from a session last year, Folz said: "There is something seriously wrong when you can't go back one year and find out what happened."

At this point, Foltz was interrupted by Reynolds du Pont, Sen ate president pro tem, who said: "Senator, would you care to repeat what you just said so we could make a record of your comments? The tape just ran out."

As Foltz took his seat, he said: "I'm just a champion of lost causes."

American Tourists Are Biggest Spenders

VIENNA (AP) — Tourists from the United States are the biggest spenders of all foreigners visiting Austria, the Austrian Tourist Office said.

U.S. citizens on the average spend 596 Schillings ($23.80) daily, British visitors 351 Schillings ($14) Swedes 311 Schillings ($12.40), French 272 Schillings ($10.80) and West Germans only 181 Schillings ($7.20).

West Germans, on the other hand, account for the largest number of tourists.

Here's Smoking Pipe That Can Be Washed

CHICAGO (AP) — A washable smoking pipe that can be dunked through the dishwasher is made of pheonolic material that makes it ssubmergible in water.

Its liner, made of a space-age missile nose cone material, can be sponged clean.

Junior Editors Quiz on PETROLEUM

QUESTION: How is oil found underground, and will we run out of it?

ANSWER: Oil, or petroleum, the basic fluid from which we get gasoline, kerosene and fuel oil, lies underground. It is formed through millions of years by plant and animal matter once covered by shallow oceans. Sediments drifted down and turned into rock. Many of the oceans dried up, leaving pools of imprisoned petroleum under the ground. Experts on rock formation estimate the location of such deposits so that the oil companies can make test drillings. If oil is found, it may shoot to the surface under its own pressure, or pumps may be installed to bring it to the surface. America is extremely fortunate to have huge deposits of oil; 29 of our states produce large amounts of it. Our map shows some known producing areas and other localities where it is thought future oil deposits may be found. New oil-producing areas are being discovered all the time, the most spectacular oil strike having been made only last year in the extreme north of Alaska. It is thought to contain up to 10 billion barrels of oil. With reserves like this, we are not going to run out of oil for a long time.

(Carol Dunn of Uncasville, Conn., wins a prize for this question. You can win $10 cash plus AP's handsome World Yearbook if your question, mailed on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of this newspaper, is selected for a prize.)

HINTS FROM HELOISE

Ring Around Ringlets

DEAR HELOISE: That latest thing for teenagers is ringlet ribbons tucked in with your own curls.

Heloise

They are so simple to make. All you have to do is wrap velvet ribbon around a pencil. They spray the velvet with hair spray and let it dry completely.

Slip the ribbon off the pencil and you have a beautiful velvet ringlet all ready for that new hairdo.

That idea is just as cute as can be and bet you are too!

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: One of my biggest problems was sand all through the house after my little boys spent the afternoon outside.

Now I have a "sand box" in their bedroom.

It's just an ordinary box that the boys slide under each foot as the shoe is taken off, and all the sand lands right in the box.

The boys love it and they even remind me to use it too!

PAM HOLLAND.

Letter Of Thought

DEAR HELOISE: I am one of many physically handicapped housewives, and I want to send a warm hello to all my friends.

Like that wonderful old motto, "The difficult we do immediately. The impossible takes a little longer."

RUTHIE.

DEAR HELOISE: Here is a hint for those who own station wagons and plan on sleeping at a roadside park while traveling.

Take along some glass wax and when you get ready to go to bed, just put it on the car windows for privacy. Next morning, wipe it off and you'll have clean windows!

REGGIE JEFFRIES AGE 10

DEAR HELOISE: Here is a hint that I have offered to my friends:

If you think pewter is difficult to clean, why not try my way?

First rub it briskly with raw cabbage, then rinse and dry-polish it throughly afterwards.

It gleams beautifully.

VELMA ORR.

DEAR HELOISE: My 15-month-old daughter has been a "crib rocker" since she was about five months old.

She rocks on her hands and knees for about 15 minutes before she falls asleep, and used to rock her crib across the whole width of the bedroom, not to mention cracking the plaster when she rocked against the wall.

Here is my solution:

The first thing I did was to take the caster wheels off her crib.

Then I bought some rubber chair tips large enough to fit right over the exposed end of the legs. I got an old 2x4 board the length of the crib and wrapped a piece of old carpet around it.

I put this on the floor between the wall and her crib. Now she can rock all she wants, doesn't hit the wall, and the rubber tips minimize the sound of the legs on the floor.

SANDY WARGOLET.

DEAR HELOISE: I learned that if I pour a small amount of cooking oil over my meat before it starts to thaw, and keep turning the meat as it thaws, I won't lose all the good natural juices.

Make sure the oil reaches all parts of the meat to seal that delicious juice in.

A READER.

This column is written for you . . . the housewife and homemaker. If you have a hint or a problem write to Heloise in care of this newspaper. Because of the tremendous volume of mail, Heloise is unable to answer all individual letters. She will, however, answer your questions in her column whenever possible.

Nigerian Magistrate Fines Tusk Snatchers

BENIN CITY, Nigeria (AP) — Shooting young elephants with a license costs $140 or six months in jail, a Benin senior magistrate has ruled.

He levied the penalty on Sura Olowa and Lawani Iyaniwara, hunters from nearby Iyekeoriomon accused of killing three young elephants and carrying off their tusks from a forest reserve.

The hunters still had a chance to make a profit because the government valued the elephant remains at $142.80.

But the court ordered the tusks and elephant hides confiscated.

Honor Students Recognized During Banquet At Midland

Fr. James L. Aaron, assistant superintendent of schools of the Pittsburgh Diocese, stressed the life and goals of the late Sen. Robert Kennedy during his talk to the honor student at the 11th annual A-Awards banquet held by Midland Council 2005 of the Knights of Columbus Friday.

Al Nutz, grand knight of the council, presented gifts and certificates to the 25 honor students present.

Michael Arbutina and Joel Carr, principals of Western Beaver High School and Midland High School, respectively, and the Rev. James Caldwell, representing Quigley High School, all gave brief remarks.

Dr. Charles P. Henderson, superintendent of Midland Public Schools, pointed out commencement "is just the beginning." He said the honor students are a shining light for the others who will follow."

Frank Merdith, superintendent of Western Beaver County Schools, expressed appreciation that the honor students were being recognized.

Fr. Stephen Burdis of Presentation Catholic Church spoke briefly. Fr. Anthony DeLuca of St. Christine Church at Industry gave the invocation. The benediction was by Fr. Kenneth Graham, assistant pastor at Presentation Church.

Some 100 K. of C. members, parents and friends attended the dinner. Leo Curto served as toastmaster.

Midland Lions Given Report On Meeting

Some 25 attended a meeting of the Midland Lions Club at the Wunder Bar Thursday. Leslie Roach reported on the recent convention he attended in Pittsburgh June 1-3.

Other members who attended include Paul McGeehan, Anthony Martell, Jack Haggerty and Nile Wain.

Haggerty reported on the recent light bulb sale. Installation of officers will be June 19.

About 300 B.C., Theophrastus referred to cork in a botanical work and Pliny mentions its use for floats and shoes.

Junior Editors Quiz on PETROLEUM

QUESTION: How is oil found underground, and will we run out of it?

ANSWER: Oil, or petroleum, the basic fluid from which we get gasoline, kerosene and fuel oil, lies underground. It is formed through millions of years by plant and animal matter once covered by shallow oceans. Sediments drifted down and turned into rock. Many of the oceans dried up, leaving pools of imprisoned petroleum under the ground. Experts on rock formation estimate the location of such deposits so that the oil companies can make test drillings. If oil is found, it may shoot to the surface under its own pressure, or pumps may be installed to bring it to the surface. America is extremely fortunate to have huge deposits of oil; 29 of our states produce large amounts of it. Our map shows some known producing areas and other localities where it is thought future oil deposits may be found. New oil-producing areas are being discovered all the time, the most spectacular oil strike having been made only last year in the extreme north of Alaska. It is thought to contain up to 10 billion barrels of oil. With reserves like this, we are not going to run out of oil for a long time.

HINTS FROM HELOISE

Ring Around Ringlets

DEAR HELOISE: That latest thing for teenagers is ringlet ribbons tucked in with your own curls.

Heloise

They are so simple to make. All you have to do is wrap velvet ribbon around a pencil. They spray the velvet with hair spray and let it dry completely.

Slip the ribbon off the pencil and you have a beautiful velvet ringlet all ready for that new hairdo.

TEENAGER.

That idea is just as cute as can be and bet you are too!

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: One of my biggest problems was sand all through the house after my little boys spent the afternoon outside.

Now I have a "sand box" in their bedroom.

It's just an ordinary box that the boys slide under each foot as the shoe is taken off, and all the sand lands right in the box.

The boys love it and they even remind me to use it too!

PAM HOLLAND.

Letter Of Thought

DEAR HELOISE: I am one of many physically handicapped housewives, and I want to send a warm hello to all my friends.

Like that wonderful old motto, "The difficult we do immediately. The impossible takes a little longer."

RUTHIE.

DEAR HELOISE: Here is a hint for those who own station wagons and plan on sleeping at a roadside park while traveling.

Take along some glass wax and when you get ready to go to bed, just put it on the car windows for privacy. Next morning, wipe it off and you'll have clean windows!

REGGIE JEFFRIES AGE 10

DEAR HELOISE: Here is a hint that I have offered to my friends:

If you think pewter is difficult to clean, why not try my way?

First rub it briskly with raw cabbage, then rinse and dry-polish it throughly afterwards.

It gleams beautifully.

VELMA ORR.

DEAR HELOISE: My 15-month-old daughter has been a "crib rocker" since she was about five months old.

She rocks on her hands and knees for about 15 minutes before she falls asleep, and used to rock her crib across the whole width of the bedroom, not to mention cracking the plaster when she rocked against the wall.

Here is my solution:

The first thing I did was to take the caster wheels off her crib.

Then I bought some rubber chair tips large enough to fit right over the exposed end of the legs. I got an old 2x4 board the length of the crib and wrapped a piece of old carpet around it.

I put this on the floor between the wall and her crib. Now she can rock all she wants, doesn't hit the wall, and the rubber tips minimize the sound of the legs on the floor.

SANDY WARGOLET.

DEAR HELOISE: I learned that if I pour a small amount of cooking oil over my meat before it starts to thaw, and keep turning the meat as it thaws, I won't lose all the good natural juices.

Make sure the oil reaches all parts of the meat to seal that delicious juice in.

Nigerian Magistrate Fines Tusk Snatchers

BENIN CITY, Nigeria (AP) — Shooting young elephants with a license costs $140 or six months in jail, a Benin senior magistrate has ruled.

He levied the penalty on Sura Olowa and Lawani Iyaniwara, hunters from nearby Iyekeoriomon accused of killing three young elephants and carrying off their tusks from a forest reserve.

The hunters still had a chance to make a profit because the government valued the elephant remains at $142.80.

But the court ordered the tusks and elephant hides confiscated.
